Seeing Trees Sonja Dümpelmann, 2019-01-01 A deep dive into urban society s need for and relationship with trees that sought to return the natural world to the concrete jungle Adrian Higgins Washington Post Winner of the Foundation for Landscape Studies 2019 John Brinckerhoff Jackson Prize Today cities around the globe are planting street trees to mitigate the effects of climate change However as landscape historian Sonja D mpelmann explains the planting of street trees in cities to serve specific functions is not a new phenomenon In her eye opening work D mpelmann shows how New York City and Berlin began systematically planting trees to improve the urban climate during the nineteenth century presenting the history of the practice within its larger social cultural and political contexts A unique integration of empirical research and theory D mpelmann s richly illustrated work uncovers this important untold story Street trees variously regarded as sanitizers nuisances upholders of virtue economic engines and more reflect the changing relationship between humans and nonhuman nature in urban environments Offering valuable insights and frameworks this authoritative volume will be an important resource for years to come
