Supported Employment Frank R. Rusch, 1990-01-01 Self-determined Learning Theory Deirdre K. Mithaug, Martin Agran, James E. Martin, Michael L. Wehmeyer, 2002-12-18 This volume brings together four semi autonomous bodies of research choice self determination self regulation and self management to form a new theory of self engaged learning entitled Self Determined Learning Theory This theory explains why and how students self engage It identifies the factors that give students the sense of control over their learning that is needed for sustained adaptive and ultimately successful learning It begins by describing the characteristics of disengaged learners then describes and illustrates self determined learning theory within both normal and special populations It then examines the theory s predictive value across several special population contexts and then concludes with a critique of the theory s credibility and worth Divided into three sections theory construction theory verification and theory evaluation this volume is organized using the four steps of a previous book Learning to Theorize A Four Step Strategy Step 1 defines a problem of not understanding something as discrepancy between what is known and not known about a circumstance Step 2 searches for information and explanations to change the condition of not knowing into a condition of knowing Step 3 evaluates the credibility and worth of the explanation constructed in Step 2 Step 4 adjusts existing beliefs so they are consistent with the new theory Although aimed primarily at leaders in special education it should also appeal to researchers and scholars in psychology educational psychology and school psychology who are interested in the applications of self regulated learning theory in this case to special populations
