

With our online journal for the role of early learning, there has been a growing emphasis on the importance of home learning environments.

We know that the environment plays a key role in children's development. It's not just about the physical space, but also the quality of the interactions and the relationships that are formed within it.

This is an important message to share with parents to help spread awareness of the value of home learning and the significant positive impact every parent can have.

To support parents' home learning it can be useful to be aware of the most common activities parents engage with.

This can include:

- Looking at a book or reading
- Learning songs, poems or nursery rhymes
- Learning numbers or to count
- Learning the alphabet or recognising words
- Printing or drawing

As practitioners we can support parents in these activities by sharing children's developmental goals and best practice. We can also suggest other activities, experiences and pedagogical approaches parents can use to add further depth to home learning.

This could include sharing the value and impact of having conversations with children to help improve
