The End Of Dreaming:

The Dreaming Mind and the End of the Ming World Lynn A. Struve, 2021-05-31 From the mid sixteenth through the end of the seventeenth century Chinese intellectuals attended more to dreams and dreaming and in a wider array of genres than in any other period of Chinese history Taking the approach of cultural history this ambitious yet accessible work aims both to describe the most salient aspects of this dream arc and to explain its trajectory in time through the writings arts and practices of well known thinkers religionists litterateurs memoirists painters doctors and political figures of late Ming and early Qing times The volume s encompassing thesis asserts that certain associations of dreaming grounded in the neurophysiology of the human brain at sleep such as subjectivity irrationality the unbidden lack of control emotionality spontaneity the imaginal and memory when especially heightened by historical and cultural developments are likely to pique interest in dreaming and generate florescences of dream expression among intellectuals The work thus makes a contribution to the history of how people have understood human consciousness in various times and cultures The Dreaming Mind and the End of the Ming World is the most substantial work in any language on the historicity of Chinese dream culture Within Chinese studies it will appeal to those with backgrounds in literature religion philosophy political history and the visual arts It will also be welcomed by readers interested in comparative dream cultures the history of consciousness and neurohistory

Obama and The End of the American Dream Michael A. Peters, 2012-09-07 The American Dream that crystallized around James Truslow Adams The Epic of America originally formulated in the early 1930s and was conditioned by a decade of complexity and contradiction of big government projects intensely fierce nationalism the definition of the American way and a distinctive collection of American iconic narratives has had the power and force to successively reshape America for every new generation Indeed Adam s dream of opportunity for each according to ability or achievement shaped against the old class culture of Europe emphasizes a vision of social order in which each person can succeed despite their social origins Barack Obama a skillful rhetorician and intelligent politician talks of restoring the American and has used its narrative resources to define his campaign and his policies In a time of international and domestic crisis of massive sovereign debt of the failure of neoliberalism of growing inequalities the question is whether the American Dream and the vision of an equal education on which it rests can be revitalized The End of a Dream A.
