Hesychasm, Word-weaving, and Slavic Hagiography Maurice LaBauve Hébert, 1993      Weaving the Word Kathryn Sullivan Kruger, 2001 Through an analysis of specific weaving stories the difference between a text and a textile becomes blurred Such stories portray women weavers transforming their domestic activity of making textiles into one of making texts by inscribing their cloth with both personal and political messages BOOK JACKET      A History of Russian Literature Andrew Kahn, Mark Lipovetsky, Irina Reyfman, Stephanie Sandler, 2018-04-05 Russia possesses one of the richest and most admired literatures of Europe reaching back to the eleventh century A History of Russian Literature provides a comprehensive account of Russian writing from its earliest origins in the monastic works of Kiev up to the present day still rife with the creative experiments of post Soviet literary life The volume proceeds chronologically in five parts extending from Kievan Rus in the 11th century to the present day The coverage strikes a balance between extensive overview and in depth thematic focus Parts are organized thematically in chapters which a number of keywords that are important literary concepts that can serve as connecting motifs and case studies in depth discussions of writers institutions and texts that take the reader up close and Visual material also underscores the interrelation of the word and image at a number of points particularly significant in the medieval period and twentieth century The History addresses major continuities and discontinuities in the history of Russian literature across all periods and in particular bring out trans historical features that contribute to the notion of a national literature The volume s time range has the merit of identifying from the early modern period a vital set of national stereotypes and popular folklore about boundaries space Holy Russia and the charismatic king that offers culturally relevant material to later writers This volume delivers a fresh view on a series of key questions about Russia s literary history by providing new mappings of literary history and a narrative that pursues key concepts rather more than individual authorial careers This holistic narrative underscores the ways in which context and text are densely woven in Russian literature and demonstrates that the most exciting way to understand the canon and the development of tradition is through a discussion of the interrelation of major and minor figures historical events and literary politics literary theory and literary innovation      moonshine JOHN PROCTOR, A. Memoirs of the Polynesian Society, 1926     When the Norns Have Spoken Anthony Winterbourne, 2004 One of the most striking aspects of the process of conversion of paganism into Christianity is the manner in which certain key religious concepts were modified without being totally obliterated from the new religious language Residual pagan beliefs persevered at least for a time notably that concerning fate The argument concludes that only after pagan fate was transformed into the concept of God's Providence could the problem of death and salvation in relation to God's power be made fully manifest Fate had become linked with death as a new beginning within Christian eschatology and was thus finally temporalized BOOK JACKET     Phantasms of Matter in Gogol (and Gombrowicz) Michal Oklot, 2009 An investigation into the problem of writing about matter in Nikolai Gogol's work and indirectly into the entire Neoplatonic tradition in Russian literature this book is not intended to be an exhaustive historical survey of the concept of matter but rather an effort to enumerate the images of matter in Gogol's texts and to specify the rules of their construction The trajectory of the book is directed by movement from Gogol to Gogol Its major assumption is that Gogol successfully develops a language for grasping the Neoplatonic concept of matter and subsequently rejects it abandoning literature Since then the Gogolian form of the image of a sheer negation of form has recurred frequently in Russian literature Yet the direction of the movement is always towards Gogol Somewhere at the margin of this circular trajectory one can inscribe a Polish writer Witold Gombrowicz who established one hundred years later a similar rhythm governing Polish literature from Gombrowicz to Gombrowicz     Handbook of Russian Literature Victor Terras, 1985-01-01 Profiles the careers of Russian authors scholars and critics and discusses the history of the Russian treatment of literary genres such as drama fiction and essays     Word-lore, 1926     Resources in Education, 1983     The Letters of William Roscoe Thayer William Roscoe Thayer, 1926     Robert Louis Stevenson (essay).
