Epilogue Behaving Consistently with Our Cognitive Goals and Objectives Two Ways of Modeling References Mind Expanding: Teaching For Thinking And Creativity In Primary Education Wegerif, Rupert,2010-08-01 There is considerable interest in education around the world in flexible thinking and learning skills but very little consensus as to the nature of these skills and how best to promote them in schools This book puts forward a clear and practical framework for understanding thinking creativity and learning to learn as the fruits of engagement in dialogue It also outlines in detail how this framework can be applied to teaching across the curriculum at both primary and secondary level drawing on the best practices associated with the teaching thinking creativity and learning to learn movements explaining their success in terms of dialogic theory In particular the book incorporates aspects of a number of thinking skills approaches such as Lipman s Philosophy for Children approach as well as features of contemporary innovations in education such as assessment for learning and the development of creativity Each chapter opens with a vignette to set the scene and continue into a light and popularly written exposition of theory before moving on to a description of practice and concluding with practical guidelines for how to teach for thinking and creativity in schools and classrooms The first six chapters in the book have more of a focus on developing core theoretical themes and the following six chapters in the second half of the book focus more on practice led themes The relationship between theory and practice is treated as flexible and dynamic theory being developed by practice as much as practice implementing theory Teaching for Thinking and Creativity Rupert Wegerif,2010-08-01 An essential addition Wegerif zooms in on the most important ingredient of all in a learning to learn classroom culture the kinds of talk that are allowed and encouraged and brings together both scholarly and practical approaches in a highly fruitful and accessible way Guy Claxton author of Building Learning Power What s the Point of School and New Kinds of Smart This is a thought provoking and readable book which makes a very good case for the importance of teaching thinking skills and encouraging creativity through dialogue Professor Neil Mercer University of Cambridge UK author of Words and Minds and Dialogue and Development There is growing interest in developing flexible thinking and learning skills in the primary classroom but there has been little agreement as to exactly what these skills are and how best to teach for them This innovative book responds to that challenge with a coherent account of what thinking and creativity are and how they can be taught Taking a dialogic approach it shows how engaging children in real dialogue is possible in every area of the curriculum and how this can lead to more reflective considerate and creative children who are able to think for themselves and to learn creatively Wegerif explores the success of approaches such as Philosophy for Children Thinking Together Dialogic Teaching and Building Learning Power Using illustrations and activities he explains how teaching and learning across the primary curriculum can be transformed This book is important reading for all primary teachers and trainees who are looking for practical ideas for teaching thinking It will also be valuable for anyone who wants to understand education and think more about what is most important in education

Teaching the Process of Thinking, K-12 Kenneth R. Chuska,1986 Noting the lack of definitive information about teaching thinking skills and how they are implemented throughout the year or how they are coordinated among subject areas and articulated along grade levels this booklet is intended to provide school districts with a successful plan for developing a comprehensive thinking program for grades K 12 The introduction to the booklet outlines six prerequisites for such a program including a common vocabulary of thinking for all teachers distinctions between process and product with regard to thinking and an inservice program to acquaint teachers with the elements of the thinking instruction model The first section of the booklet discusses conditions necessary for thinking something to think about something to think with some ways in which to think and something to think for The next section then presents a five step model for developing a thinking program using the existing K 12 curriculum and discusses major implications of this model for teaching and learning The remaining sections of the booklet offer suggestions for implementing the model and for evaluating thinking HTH

Teaching for Thinking James W. Keefe,Herbert J. Walberg,1992 This volume represents a variety of current efforts to incorporate thought provoking methods into teaching There are three sections Curriculum Developments defines key curricular terms and offers a framework and general examples of teaching tactics In this section Barbara Presseisen distinguishes thinking from other cognitive activities and shows how conation motivation and striving and knowledge representation are being used to promote thinking Robert Marzano discusses three domains learning to learn content thinking and reasoning assignable to specific subjects and Francis Schrag describes how to promote deep thinking in the classroom Teaching and Assessment describes new methods for teaching thinking and assessing student progress Barak Rosenshine and Joseph Guenther describe scaffolding temporary instructional supports and Ann Brown and Joseph Campione urge incorporation of thinking into all school programs through reciprocal teaching strategies Charles Letteri s essay focuses on assessing students learning strengths and weaknesses as a diagnostic tool for guiding individualized and group programs to improve classroom performance Robert Ennis discusses several tests and techniques for measuring thinking for accountability Concluding Perspectives synthesizes research on practical methods of teaching thinking in essays contributed by Barry Beyer Robert Sternberg and James Keefe Most chapters contain reading suggestions MLH
