Teaching Translation and Interpreting 3 Cay Dollerup, Vibeke Appel, 1996 Selected papers from the Third Language International Conference on Translator and Interpreter Training Capping the series of conferences on this theme in Denmark the present volume brings together a choice selection of the papers read by scholars and teachers from five continents and within all specialities in Translation Studies In combination with the two previous volumes of the same title the book offers an up to date comprehensive representative overview focusing on main issues in teaching in the relatively new field of translation There are informed and incisive discussions of subtitling interpreting and translation spanning from its historical beginnings to presentations of machine translation and predictions of the future of translation work Contributions ranging from discussions on the interplay between theory and teaching teaching literary translation introducing students to central issues in translation practice and historical and social issues in teaching translation Women and Early Modern Cultures of Translation Hilary Brown, 2022 Women and Early Modern Cultures of Translation Beyond the Female Tradition is a major new intervention in research on early modern translation and will be an essential point of reference for anyone interested in the history of women translators Research on women translators has often focused on early modern England the example of early modern England has been taken as the norm for the rest of the continent and has shaped research on gender and translation more generally This book brings a new European perspective to the field by introducing the case of Germany It draws attention to forty women who can be identified as translators in sixteenth and seventeenth century Germany and shows how their work does not fit easily into traditional narratives about marginalization and subversiveness The study uses the example of Germany to argue against reading the work of translating women primarily through the lens of gender and to challenge claims about the existence of a female translation tradition which transcends the boundaries of time and place Broadening our perspective to include Germany provides a more nuanced and informed account of the position of women within European translation cultures and forces us to rethink gender as a category of analysis in translation history The book makes the case for a new woman interrogated approach to translation history to borrow a concept from Carol Maier and as such it will provide a blueprint for future work in the area Provided by publisher The Sociological Turn in Translation and Interpreting Studies Claudia V. Angelelli, 2014-09-15 Increasing attention has been paid to the agency of translators and interpreters as well as to the social factors that permeate acts of translation and interpreting In addition agency and social factors are discussed in more interdisciplinary terms Currently the focus is not only on translators or interpreters i e the exploration of their inter intra social agency and identity construction or on their activities and the consequences thereof

but also on other phenomena such as the displacement of texts and people and issues of access and linguicism The displacement of texts whether written or oral across time and space as well as the geographic displacement of people has encouraged researchers in Translation and Interpreting Studies to consider issues related to translation and interpreting through the lens of the Sociology of Language Sociolinguistics and Historiography Researchers have employed a myriad of theoretical and methodological lenses borrowed from other disciplines in the Humanities and Social Sciences Therefore the interdisciplinarity of Translation and Interpreting Studies is more evident now than ever before This volume originally published as a special issue of Translation and Interpreting Studies issue 7 2 2012 is a perfect example of such interdisciplinarity reflecting the shift that has occurred in Translation and Interpreting Studies around the world over the last 30 years

New Orientations in Interpreting Studies and Interpreter Education Binhua Wang, 2025-09-11 This book proposes a multidimensional model that revisits the epistemology of interpreting studies and the distinctive features of interpreting and outlines three new research orientations The first considers interpreting as immediate bilingual information processing the second considers interpreting as meaning mediation in cross lingual interpersonal communication and cross sociocultural interaction and the third looks at language pair specificity in interpreting The main research topics concepts and methods are covered and case studies and examples are provided The author also proposes a multicomposite framework of interpreter competence as the conceptual foundation of interpreter education in the AI era for which three major shifts are identified as necessary particularly the transition from interpreting skill training to interpreter competence development The research orientations discussed in this book are important as they shed new light on the nature and mechanism of interpreting open up new venues for interpreting studies and provide meaningful responses to new issues emerging from changes in the interpreting profession with the development of AI technologies This is essential reading for all engaged in teaching researching and studying interpreting and interpreting studies

The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Methodology Federico Zanettin, Christopher Rundle, 2022-03-10 The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Methodology provides a comprehensive overview of methodologies in translation studies including both well established and more recent approaches The Handbook is organised into three sections the first of which covers methodological issues in the two main paradigms to have emerged from within translation studies namely skopos theory and descriptive translation studies The second section covers multidisciplinary perspectives in research methodology and considers their application in translation research The third section deals with practical and pragmatic methodological issues Each chapter provides a summary of relevant research a literature overview critical issues and topics recommendations for best practice and some suggestions for further reading Bringing together over 30 eminent international scholars from a wide range of disciplinary and geographical backgrounds this Handbook is essential reading for all students and scholars involved in translation methodology and research

Translation and Literature ,1997 Crossing Cultural Boundaries in East Asia and Beyond Reiko

Maekawa, Darwin Stapleton, Roberta Wollons, 2021-03-01 Crossing Cultural Boundaries in East Asia and Beyond explores the personal complexities and ambiguities and the successes and failures of crossing borders and boundaries. While the focus is on East Asia, it universalizes cultural anxieties with comparative cases in Russia and the United States. The authors primarily engage the individual experiences of border crossing rather than more typically those of political or social groups located at territorial boundaries. Drawing on those individual experiences, this volume presents an array of attempts to negotiate the discomforts of crossing personal borders and attends to the intimate experiences of border crossers whether they are traveling to an unfamiliar cultural location or encountering the other in local settings such as the classroom or the coffee shop.
