

DESIGNING FOR ALL AGES & ABILITIES

Every design must meet the needs of a diverse range of potential bike riders. Across North America, however, many existing bike facility design standards are limited to only the oldest people living and exclude many who might otherwise use them.

IN AN AGE OF GROWING POPULATION that has become increasingly diverse and aging, it's essential to design bike facilities that are usable by everyone. This means considering the needs of people of all ages and abilities, including those with physical disabilities. The National Association of City Transportation Officials (NACTO) is committed to creating bike facilities that are safe and accessible for all.

Urban Bikeway Design Guide

National Association of City Transportation Officials

Third Edition

The third edition of the Urban Bikeway Design Guide provides updated guidance on how to design bike facilities that are safe and accessible for all. It includes a new chapter on designing for people with disabilities and a new chapter on designing for people of all ages and abilities. The guide also includes updated information on the latest research and best practices for bike facility design.

OUR VISION

Cities where safe, sustainable, and equitable transportation systems connect communities to the resources they need to thrive.
