When Beliefs Fail:

Externalism about Knowledge Luis R. G. Oliveira, 2023-07-02 Externalism about knowledge is thriving in contemporary epistemology. Nonetheless, externalism is too often caricatured as merely reliabilism, too often reduced to simply externalism about justification and rarely considered as a cohesive family of related but importantly different views. Externalism About Knowledge addresses all of these issues by bringing new essays from leading externalist epistemologists working on seven different branches of this tradition: process reliabilism, tracking views, safety views, virtue epistemology, proper functionalism, naturalized epistemology, and knowledge-first epistemology. This collection highlights their unity, their differences, their interconnections, and their most recent challenges, developments, and extensions. Belief and Cult Jacob L. Mackey, 2022-08-02 A groundbreaking reinterpretation that draws on cognitive theory to show that belief wasn't absent from but rather was at the heart of Roman religion. Belief and Cult argues that belief isn't uniquely Christian but was central to ancient Roman religion. Drawing on cognitive theory, Jacob Mackey shows that despite having nothing to do with salvation or faith, belief underlay every aspect of Roman religious practices: emotions, individual and collective cult action, ritual norms, social reality, and social power. In doing so, he also offers a thorough argument for the importance of belief to other non-Christian religions. At the individual level, the book argues belief played an indispensable role in the genesis of cult action and religious emotion. However, belief also had a collective dimension. The cognitive theory of Shared Intentionality shows how beliefs may be shared among individuals, accounting for the existence of written, unwritten, or even unspoken ritual norms. Shared beliefs permitted the choreography of collective cult action and gave cult acts their social meanings. The book also elucidates the role of shared belief in creating and maintaining Roman social reality. Shared belief allowed the Romans to endow agents, actions, and artifacts with socio-religious status and power. In a deep sense, no man could count as an augur and no act of animal slaughter as a successful offering to the gods unless Romans collectively shared appropriate beliefs about these things. Closely examining augury, prayer, the religious enculturation of children, and the Romans' own theories of cognition and cult, Belief and Cult promises to revolutionize the understanding of Roman religion by demonstrating that none of its features makes sense without Roman belief. Self-determined Learning Theory Deirdre K. Mithaug, Martin Agran, James E. Martin, Michael L. Wehmeyer, 2002-12-18 This volume brings together four semi-autonomous bodies of research: choice, self-determination, self-regulation, and self-management, to form a new theory of self-engaged learning entitled Self-Determined Learning Theory. This theory explains why and how students self-engage. It identifies the factors that give students the sense of control over their learning that is needed for sustained, adaptive, and ultimately successful learning. It begins by describing the characteristics of disengaged learners, then describes and illustrates self-determined learning theory within both normal and special populations. It then examines the theory's predictive value across several special population contexts and then concludes with a critique of the theory's credibility and worth. Divided into three sections, theory construction theory verification and theory evaluation this volume is organized using the four steps of a previous book Learning to Theorize A Four Step Strategy Step 1 defines a problem of not understanding something as discrepancy between what is known and not known about a circumstance Step 2 searches for information and explanations to change the condition of not knowing into a condition of knowing Step 3 evaluates the credibility and worth of the explanation constructed in Step 2 Step 4 adjusts existing beliefs so they are consistent with the new theory Although aimed primarily at leaders in special education it should also appeal to researchers and scholars in psychology educational psychology and school psychology who are interested in the applications of self regulated learning theory in this case to special populations
