Toward Defining The African Aesthetic:

Toward Defining the African Aesthetic Lemuel A. Johnson, 1982-01-01 Toward Defining the African Aesthetic African Literature Association. Meeting, 1982 Towards Defining the African Aesthetic, 1982 Pan-African Aesthetics Lena Dallywater, 2025-11-17 Pan Africanism has been a global project aiming to unite people of African descent since the late nineteenth century. Notions of Black and African arts and aesthetics have functioned as a bridge and brought positive identification across national, ethnic, or class divides even when rifts have appeared unbridgeable. They were able to mediate Africanity positively both prior to and during the struggle for liberation and at times when the dream of a unified African nation died. This study explores central aspects, proponents and opponents of Pan African aesthetics and shows that conceptualizations of Black African and Afrocentric aesthetics form a kaleidoscope that is constantly changing. Based on historical sources, in-depth reading, and qualitative interviews, the study illustrates what happened to the discussions in the postcolonial era. The story unfolds along the life paths and approaches of four intellectuals from Anglophone and Francophone Africa. Their framings can tell us more about the underlying themes, contestations, and contradictions of emancipatory projects in the mid-twentieth century and show us that the study of Pan Africanism is not yet exhausted; neither is the history of the idea and the movement.

Theory of African Literature Chidi Amuta, 2017-06-15 This groundbreaking work, first published in 1989, was one of the first to challenge the conventional critical assessment of African literature and remains highly influential today. Amuta's key argument is that African literature can be discussed only within the wider framework of the dismantling of colonial rule and Western hegemony in Africa. In exploring the possibility of a dialectical alternative critical base, he draws upon both classical Marxist aesthetics and the theories of African culture espoused by Fanon, Cabral, and Ngugi. From these explorations, Amuta derives a new language of criticism which is then applied to works by modern African writers as diverse as Achebe, Ousmane Agostinho Neto, and Dennis Brutus. Amuta's highly original and innovative approach remains relevant not only for assessing the literature of developing countries but for Marxist and postcolonial theories of literary criticism more generally. The author's elegance of argument and clarity of exposition makes this a distinguished and lasting contribution to debates around cultural expression in postcolonial Africa. Towards a Sociology of African Literature Chidi Amuta, 1986 African Studies Review, 1991 Aesthetics and Ideology in African and Afro-American Fiction Charles Atangana Nama, 1984 African Studies Bulletin, 1985 Malawian Oral Literature Steve Bernard Miles Chimombo, 1988 ALA Newsletter African Literature Association, 1980 Francophone African Fiction Jonathan Ngate, 1988 African Music, 1991 Small Press Record of Books in Print Len Fulton, 1994 Enhancing the Dream - with Knowledge Melanin Incorporated, 1991 African Music John Gray, 1991-04-04 African Music is devoted to ethnographic, anthropological, musicological, and popular studies of sub-Saharan African music from the 1890s to the present.
