Moscow DMZ: The Story of the International Effort to Convert Russian Weapons Science to Peaceful Purposes Glenn E. Schweitzer, 2016-09-16. As the Soviet Union was collapsing in late 1991, reports began to reach the West about agents shopping for weapons systems and weapons scientists in the beleaguered Soviet military industrial complex. In response, the United States, the European Community, and Japan, in cooperation with the Russian government, created a program to reemploy Soviet scientific personnel in civilian projects dealing with the legacy of the Soviet system: a polluted environment, unsafe nuclear power facilities, and economic underdevelopment. In this fascinating first-person account, the American environmental scientist who led the effort to establish the International Science and Technology Center in Moscow tells the diplomatic, scientific, and human story behind a remarkable post-Cold War conversion initiative.

Cascade of Arms Andrew J. Pierre, 1997-11-01. With the post-cold war emphasis on the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, the neglected dimension has been the spread of advanced conventional arms. Yet these are the arms most likely to be used in conflict. They present the greatest diversion from economic and social development and are the centerpiece of regional security balances. This book examines the policies and practices of the major arms supplying nations, looks at the impact of weapons purchases on the principal recipient regions, and the possibilities for regional arms control, and dissects the economics of arms exports for the producer nations in both the developing and industrialized worlds. The book thoroughly discusses the opportunities for and obstacles to achieving multilateral restraint on arms. In addition to the editor, contributors are Ian Anthony, Stockholm International Peace Research Institute; Nicole Ball, Overseas Development Council; Julian Cooper, University of Birmingham; Lawrence Freedman and Martin Navias, King's College London; Rodney Jones, Policy Architects International; Ethan Kapstein, University of Minnesota; Michael Klare, Five College Program in Peace and World Security Studies; Andrew Mack, Australian National University; Abdel Monem Said Aly, Center for Political and Strategic Studies, Cairo; Janne Nolan, Brookings Institution; Andrew Ross, Naval War College; Gerald Segal, International Institute for Strategic Studies; and Gerald Steinberg, Bar Ilan University, Israel. Copublished with the World Peace Foundation.

Global Society in Transition: An International Politics Reader Daniel N. Nelson, Laura Neack, 2002-05-13. International Politics: A Journal of Transnational Issues and Global Problems has since 1997 published an extraordinary array of path-breaking analyses about the world's political metamorphosis. Featuring scholarship that transcends boundaries of states and disciplines, International Politics editors and contributors have joined to assemble from the journal's last few volumes a far-reaching portrait of new actors, identities, norms, and institutions that populate a stage once confined to states, power, and national interests. Further interventions to build states, make or keep the peace, impose sanctions, or save currencies are examined, as are the institutional enlargements at the forefront of policy in Europe. This book offers a wealth of policy-relevant scholarship about a world in making not yet detached from Cold War or even Westphalian roots but certainly in process towards a qualitatively different global system All published after rigorous peer review chapters in Global Society in Transition will provide comparative politics international relations and world affairs courses at undergraduate and graduate level with instant access to the best of new research and innovative thinking in these fields Consequences of China's Military Sales to Iran United States.
