The Climate Mandate:

The Climate Mandate Walter Orr Roberts, Henry Lansford, 1979 International Yearbook of Soil Law and Policy 2022 Harald Ginzky, Fabiano De Andrade Corrêa, Elizabeth Dooley, Irene L. Heuser, Patricia Kameri-Mbote, Robert Kibugi, Oliver C. Ruppel, 2024-03-01 This open access book presents an important discussion on the interface between sustainable soil management and climate mitigation and adaptation. It investigates a variety of aspects in this context such as the political and societal consequences for countries in the Global South, an assessment of the outcomes of the UNFCCC Conference of Parties held in Glasgow, appropriate legal instruments to promote desirable regulatory concepts for negative emissions in soil and land use, the debate in Europe on carbon uptake in soils and the climate related policy of the Convention on Biological Diversity. Lastly, it provides information on recent court rulings on climate mitigation in Germany and Australia and their relevance for sustainable soil management. This sixth volume of the International Yearbook of Soil Law and Policy is divided into four parts: the first of which deals with various aspects of the theme Climate Mitigation and Adaptation and Sustainable Soil Management. The second part covers recent international developments, the third presents regional and national reports, and the fourth discusses overarching issues. Given the range of key topics covered, the book offers an indispensable tool for all academics, legislators, and policymakers working in this field. The International Yearbook of Soil Law and Policy series discusses central questions in law and politics with regard to the protection and sustainable management of soil and land at the international, national, and regional level.

Climate Data Records from Environmental Satellites National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Atmospheric Sciences and Climate, Committee on Climate Data Records from NOAA Operational Satellites, 2004-09-26 The report outlines key elements to consider in designing a program to create climate quality data from satellites. It examines historical attempts to create climate data records, provides advice on steps for generating, re-analyzing, and storing satellite climate data, and discusses the importance of partnering between agencies, academia, and industry. NOAA will use this report as the first in a two-part study to draft an implementation plan for climate data records.

Climate Governance and Federalism Alan Fenna, Sébastien Jodoin, Joana Setzer, 2023-05-25 The majority of the world's largest carbon emitters are either federations or have adopted systems of decentralised governance. The realisation of the world's climate mitigation objectives therefore depends in large part on whether and how governments within federal systems can cooperate to reduce carbon emissions and catalyse the emergence of low carbon societies. This volume brings together leading experts to explore whether federal or decentralised systems help or hinder efforts to mitigate and adapt to climate change. It reviews the opportunities and challenges federalism offers for the development and implementation of climate mitigation and adaptation policies and identifies the conditions that influence the outcomes of climate governance. Including in-depth case studies of 14 different jurisdictions, this is an essential resource for academics, policymakers, and practitioners interested in climate governance and the best practices for enhancing climate action.
