INTRODUCTION

The Learner Treatment Kit (LTK) is a basic first-aid-kit available for school going children in primary schools during school hours. LTK successfully brought life changing services closer to children. Utilising teachers as a resource to provide diagnosis, treatment and management of uncomplicated malaria, the LTK program reduced economic and financial burden for families and strain on the health system in Zomba and Machinga districts. ### COUNTRY CONTEXT malawi

Malawi is among the top 20 countries with the highest malaria mortality rates including among Malawian children 5-14 years old. In 2022, there were 4,527,729 malaria cases and the disease contributed to 1,829 deaths. The disease contributed to 19% of all outpatient visits, 9% of all hospitalizations and 15% of deaths (all ages) in the same year. It is estimated that school children experience equivalent to 2.1 million total attacks per year and are at increased risk of malaria infection compared with younger children, as they are less likely to sleep under bed nets than any other age group, and they are also less likely to be brought for any type of malaria treatment.

Insecticide-treated bed nets (ITNs) usage among school children is lower (38%) than that for under 5 children (54%) or other IHI members. However, the country's efforts to combat malaria target under 5 children and pregnant and breastfeeding mothers, leaving behind this equally affected age group to school aged children.
