The Inhuman Jean-Francois Lyotard, 1993-08-27 In this major study now available in paperback Lyotard develops his analysis of the phenomenon of postmodernity and examines the philosophy of Kant Heidegger Adorno and Derrida Lyotard claims that it is the task of literature philosophy and the arts to bear witness to and explain the links between modernity progress and humanity and the difficult transition to postmodernity

Derridada Thomas Deane Tucker, 2009-01-01 Derridada explores the affinities between the work of Marcel Duchamp and the discipline of deconstruction It is the first text to explore Duchamp s work in the context of the theories of Derrida and deconstruction

The Sublime Lap-Chuen Tsang, 1998 An important work offering a viable theory for the concept of Sublime in philosophy This is a work of quite unusual philosophical interest original and deeply insightful Dr Tsang argues on the one hand that sublimity is not a property of objects regarded as sublime but belongs to our construal of objects while on the other he also argues that when we so construe an object we are giving expression to some limit to our life not an external barrier but a limit internal to it But what lies at the limit cannot be represented So the sublime can be evoked by language but not represented in it This leads Dr Tsang on to a philosophical analysis of evocation and of the evocative possibilities of a sublime object What he says about evocation presupposes and requires for its completion an account of how affective elements are involved in the experience of the sublime and what he claims here is that there is no one feeling or type of feeling involved in the experience of the sublime but that a wide range of different feelings may be involved on different occasions The quality of the feeling is closely bound up with the character of the experience of the sublime as a limit experience Finally Dr Tsang considers the cultural and social context of experiences of the sublime both what is universally recognized as sublime because bound up with the general conditions of human life and what is specific to particular cultural and social contexts He then moves to the conclusion to examine the relationship of the sublime to human willing As a postscript there is an excellent treatment of Kant s theory of the sublime

Heidegger, Levinas, Derrida: The Question of Difference Lisa Foran, Rozemund Uljée, 2016-09-30 This book explores the relation between Heidegger Levinas and Derrida by means of a dialogue with experts on the work of these mutually influential thinkers Each essay in this collection focuses on the relation between at least two of these three philosophers focusing on various themes such as Alterity Justice Truth and Language By contextualising these thinkers and tracing their mutually shared themes the book establishes the question of difference and its ongoing radicalization as the problem to which phenomenology must respond Heidegger s influence on Derrida and Levinas was quite substantial Derrida once claimed that his work would not have been possible without the opening of Heidegger s questions Equally as peers Derrida and Levinas commented on and critiqued each other s work By examining the differences between these thinkers on a variety of themes this book represents a philosophically enriching project and essential reading for understanding the respective projects of each of these philosophers

Posthumanism portrays technology as an other to be embraced and consequently has lost sight of the basic realities of human technological boundary Technology becomes a superior model of information processing to which humans aspire Posthuman Suffering contends that we do not embrace technology to expand and augment our selves we embrace technology so that it may embrace us Finally and most importantly the posthuman view reconceptualizes the human being to be made more compatible with computerized systems or possible artificial intelligences In the age of technology our own limitations are legitimized as unique to the human condition Through those limitations we can distinguish ourselves from our machines making us superior to them via our own imperfection Posthumanist discourse from scholars such as N Katherine Hayles Donna Haraway and others often fails to address the underlying meaning behind our technological aspirations and actually perpetuates the belief that properly embracing technology allows us to overcome the very need to technology itself if we possess the right apparatus to take in the world and the code which instantiates it then the world will give us everything it has to offer In so doing we sacrifice the objective of experiencing the world for the object through which it should be experienced By revealing the theoretical and historical foundations of posthumanism through the work of Elaine Scarry Freud Heidegger and Lyotard and tracing narrative representations of failed posthuman ontologies in Thomas Pynchon s The Crying of Lot 49 Don DeLillo s White Noise and Steven Spielberg s film AI Artificial Intelligence Posthuman Suffering and the Technological Embrace re frames the core assumptions of posthumanism in terms of psychological trauma and the physicality of the human technological interface itself

Artistic Agency Alistair Macaulay, Timothy Deane-Freeman, Antonia Pont, 2025-11-29 This volume seeks to explain the notion of control artists possess and given they are changed by the action the sense in which they can claim an artwork as theirs Standard explanations of action and agency struggle to explain various artistic practices Requiring recourse to a prior intention these accounts are challenged by the spontaneity of dance and musical improvisation a painter s realization of an artwork and how writers manifest meaning in a piece of writing Furthermore in such artistic practices the artist is changed by the demands of the action This interdisciplinary volume combines thirteen contributions from various artistic practices in photography music dance and painting with philosophical perspectives from post war France to consider the changing role of the artist This identifies what it is about an artistic practice that is creative and how everyday occurrences can become artistic describing the ethical and political implications of various artistic practices

Politics of Time Prathama Banerjee,2006 Through its overall vision arguments suggestive insights and the wide variety of materials it presents this book rethinks persuasive understandings of history history writing modernity colonialism and the primitives

The Structurist ,1999 Tekhnema ,1995 Jean-François Lyotard Stuart Sim,1996 The French theorist Jean Francois Lyotard is one of the major contemporary thinkers whose work seriously challenged foundationalist philosophy This volume provides a survey of his works and comments on his postmodernism and Marxism in particular through his most influential book The Postmodern Condition Attention is also given to his more specialized philosophical and political writings which are sometimes marginalized in more general commentaries The work engages with Lyotardean concepts such as grand narrative differend paganism and svelteness which have been generally adopted throughout the field of cultural enquiry

The American Poetry Wax Museum Jed Rasula,1996 Drawing upon literary criticism cultural studies and social history this book examines the canonizing assumptions and compulsions that have fabricated an image of American poetry since World War II foremost of which is the enshrinement of the self expressive subject The tone of the book oscillates between documentary and polemic in an attempt to preserve the tensions that underlie the field of American poetry and which are typically subdued by anthologists and glossed over by commentators The first chapter offers a theoretical scaffolding intended to contextualize following chapters and to invite other poets and critics to consider what it means to assemble and police a national canon of poetry Subsequent chapters examine scholarship on contemporary American poetry the cultural politics of publication and reviewing which excludes women people of color and gays and lesbians from many poetry anthologies and poetry in the academy and the role of the poetry workshop Ten appendixes list American poetry anthologies most anthologized poets number of anthology appearances poets by birthdate first anthology appearances anthologies in translation prizes and awards results of a search of the MLA bibliography on CD ROM critical discussions of American poets and interviews collections of poets essays RS

Labours of the Mind Tadeusz Rachwał,2001 The main concern of the book is the way in which such seemingly obvious notions as labour and production have contributed to the formation of human subject in European culture What is offered to the reader is a reading and a re reading of a number of conceptualisations of culture of a number of such labours of the mind in which labour and production either explicitly or implicitly become principles in the evaluation of cultures as well as powerful tools for the ideological constitution and reconstruction of social space What the book also addresses is the question of the ways culture is related to nature and hence the question of the reality of culture which inevitably hinges on questioning the reality of reality itself continental philosophers have indelibly shaped the trajectory of Western thought since the eighteenth century. Although much has been written about these monumental thinkers, students and scholars lack a definitive guide to the entire scope of the continental tradition. The most comprehensive reference work to date, this eight-volume History of Continental Philosophy will both encapsulate the subject and reorient our understanding of it. Beginning with an overview of Kant's philosophy and its initial reception, the History traces the evolution of continental philosophy through major figures as well as movements such as existentialism, phenomenology, hermeneutics, and poststructuralism. The final volume outlines the current state of the field, bringing the work of both historical and modern thinkers to bear on such contemporary topics as feminism, globalization, and the environment. Throughout, the volumes examine important philosophical figures and developments in their historical, political, and cultural contexts. The first reference of its kind, A History of Continental Philosophy has been written and edited by internationally recognized experts with a commitment to explaining complex thinkers' texts and movements in rigorous yet jargon-free essays suitable for both undergraduates and seasoned specialists. These volumes also elucidate ongoing debates about the nature of continental and analytic philosophy, surveying the distinctive, sometimes overlapping characteristics and approaches of each tradition. Featuring helpful overviews of major topics and plotting road maps to their underlying contexts, A History of Continental Philosophy is destined to be the resource of first and last resort for students and scholars alike.

Postmodernist Culture Steven Connor, 1997-01-23. This 2nd edition of Postmodernist Culture considers the work of Lyotard and Jameson and the way modern theories are impinging on more areas of culture, including the law, music, dance, ecology, technology, ethnography, and spatial theories. Organized Networks Ned Rossiter, 2006. The celebration of network cultures as open, decentralized, and horizontal, all too easily overshadows their political dimensions. Organized Networks sets out to destroy these myths by tracking the antagonisms that lurk within Internet governance, debates the exploitation of labor in creative industries, and the aesthetics of global finance capital. Cutting across the fields of media theory, political philosophy, and cultural critique, Ned Rossiter diagnoses some of the key problematics facing network cultures today. BOOK JACKET
