How to Weed Your Attic Elizabeth H. Dow, Lucinda P. Cockrell, 2018-08-16 How to Weed Your Attic Getting Rid of Junk without Destroying History provides answers to the question when someone dies or it s time to move or just clean out the attic garage or basement what papers and other things should we save for the sake of history and what can we safely toss After reading this clearly written book by a retired archivist and a retired museum curator you can comfortably clean out your attic or office garage basement cupboards with confidence that you re not tossing out historically valuable or invaluable things and that you will not ask your local museum to take things that really belong in a thrift store junk yard or recycle center The book first describes how to identify historically important documents and artifacts The authors explain a few simple rules 1 a complete or long collection has more value than a partial one 2 emotive material provides a richer picture than factual material 3 unique usually has more value than mass produced 4 documents and objects carry more information than they intend to and 5 a 25 year rule exists without our consciously recognizing it They then apply the rules and assess the probable historical value of four different types of materials mass produced from books to vehicles individually created from art work to toys business materials from governance documents to uniforms and commemorative materials from awards to wedding dresses The book includes a brief description of the basics for preserving materials the reader wants to keep and references sources for more detail It also recognizes that the reader may not want to keep stuff that clearly has historical value For those readers the authors describe how to donate materials to a cultural repository In broad strokes they explain how repositories differ what the repository will want to know about the stuff you re offering where an appraiser and or tax advisor fits into the process and what the reader can expect the repository to do and not do Finally the book addresses unexpected issues that may arise around questions of legal ownership and privacy Throughout the book the authors illustrate their points using photographs and vignettes

Practical Conservation Josephine Atkinson,Islamic Arts Museum Malaysia,2009 Different climates present different conservation challenges Tropical conditions are among the most challenging of all Although collectors care about their artefacts as much as museums do they do not usually have the facilities to treat them as they deserve With Practical Conservation the Islamic Arts Museum Malaysia aims to bring the expertise of its conservators to a wider audience This easy to read book explains how far collectors can go in looking after their own collections Whatever the setting or the type of artefact prevention is better than cure The techniques that have been outlined in Practical Conservation are a combination of common sense and acquired conservation knowledge There are many books on conservation available but most are relevant to temperate surroundings With Asia becoming home to an increasing number of collections it is more essential than ever for owners in this part of the world to understand their artefacts and learn how to care for them
