Thresholds Of Desire:

THE THRESHOLD OF DESIRE JAMES BUITRE,2025-07-20 No one warns you that marriage can become a well made bed warm but without fire After ten years moans can start to sound like distant echoes and caresses can feel like routine Claudia used to climax with a muffled cry into the sheets now she just sighed Marcos once insatiable had become predictable Two bodies that knew exactly how to touch each other but not how to ignite Until one night between a glass of wine and a conversation heavy with silence the question came that changed everything What if we invite someone else That phrase was like a match struck in a room full of gas The possibility the thrill the fear it all caught fire at once What began as a shared fantasy a pillow top game quickly became a need A craving They discovered a hidden world sensual overflowing with willing bodies and eyes heavy with desire A universe where fidelity wasn't measured by exclusivity but by complicity Where the limits of pleasure were only as wide as their trust in each other This is not a story of betrayal It's a story of rediscovery

The guardian of the threshold. The soul's awakening Rudolf Steiner,1920 Time and Decision George Loewenstein,Daniel Read,Roy F. Baumeister,2003-02-27 How do people decide whether to sacrifice now for a future reward or to enjoy themselves in the present Do the future gains of putting money in a pension fund outweigh going to Hawaii for New Year's Eve Why does a person's self discipline one day often give way to impulsive behavior the next Time and Decision takes up these questions with a comprehensive collection of new research on intertemporal choice examining how people face the problem of deciding over time Economists approach intertemporal choice by means of a model in which people discount the value of future events at a constant rate A vacation two years from now is worth less to most people than a vacation next week Psychologists on the other hand have focused on the cognitive and emotional underpinnings of intertemporal choice Time and Decision draws from both disciplinary approaches to provide a comprehensive picture of the various layers of choice involved Shane Frederick George Loewenstein and Ted O Donoghue introduce the volume with an overview of the research on time discounting and focus on how people actually discount the future compared to the standard economic model Alex Kacelnik discusses the crucial role that the ability to delay gratification must have played in evolution Walter Mischel and colleagues review classic research showing that four year olds who are able to delay gratification subsequently grow up to perform better in college than their counterparts who chose instant gratification The book also delves into the neurobiology of patience examining the brain structures involved in the ability to withstand an impulse Turning to the issue of self control Klaus Wertenbroch examines the relationship between consumption and available resources showing for example how a high credit limit can lead people to overspend Ted O Donoghue and Matthew Rabin show how people's awareness of their self control problems affects their decision making The final section of the book examines intertemporal choice with regard to health drug addiction dieting marketing savings and public policy All of us make important decisions every day many of which profoundly affect the quality of our lives Time and Decision provides a fascinating look at the complex factors involved in how and why we make our choices so many of them short sighted and helps us understand more precisely this crucial human frailty The Dweller on the Threshold Robert Hichens,1911

Mele,2001 Self deception raises complex questions about the nature of belief and the structure of the human mind In this book Alfred Mele addresses four of the most critical of these questions What is it to deceive oneself How do we deceive ourselves Why do we deceive ourselves Is self deception really possible Drawing on cutting edge empirical research on everyday reasoning and biases Mele takes issue with commonplace attempts to equate the processes of self deception with those of stereotypical interpersonal deception Such attempts he demonstrates are fundamentally misguided particularly in the assumption that self deception is intentional In their place Mele proposes a compelling empirically informed account of the motivational causes of biased beliefs At the heart of this theory is an appreciation of how emotion and motivation may without our knowing it bias our assessment of evidence for beliefs Highlighting motivation and emotion Mele develops a pair of approaches for explaining the two forms of self deception the straight form in which we believe what we want to be true and the twisted form in which we believe what we wish to be false Underlying Mele s work is an abiding interest in understanding and explaining the behavior of real human beings The result is a comprehensive elegant empirically grounded theory of everyday self deception that should engage philosophers and social scientists alike The Hidden Way Across the Threshold J. C. Street,1887 Collier's ,1929
