Robert William Pazmiño

Theological Educator:

God Our Teacher Robert W. Pazmino, 2016-08-05 Noted Christian education professor and theorist Robert W Pazmino shares the theological essentials to guide faithful educational thought and practices in the third millennium He explores a prepositional theology that deepens the relationships between God and us through our teaching and learning together with spiritual wisdom Practical Wisdom Malcolm L. Warford, 2004 Contemporary theological education is facing profound changes Fundamental shifts in both church and society have established a volatile context for theological teaching and learning Seminaries are struggling with the growing diversity of their students faculties and institutional commitments This book addresses these issues both contextually and historically engages the nature of theological teaching and learning and offers educational practices that strengthen the vocation of teaching and enhance the school as a place of conversation

Theological Education and Christian Scholarship for Human Flourishing Celucien L. Joseph, 2022-09-14 This book explores the interconnection of theological education and Christian scholarship cultural and theological hermeneutics pedagogy and community knowledge democracy and citizenship Yet the three major disciplines or discourses covered in this work include multicultural education theology and hermeneutics through the lens of human flourishing and the concept of the good life From this angle this project is written from three different methods and approaches that intersect with each other a theology of contextualization a hermeneutics of interculturality and a pedagogy of cultural literacy and transformative community knowledge The book advances the idea that theological education should be the starting point to foster candid conversations about the importance of democracy and human rights civic engagement and the political life inclusion and diversity and pluralism and difference in our multicultural society The book uses the tools of multicultural education and cultural knowledge to enhance democracy and promote fundamental human virtues that would sustain the good life and human flourishing in the world in the Aristotelian sense and in the Socratic idea of local and world citizenship Finally this text offers an alternative vision to contemporary theological education to deconstruct the white male and Eurocentric narratives of theological education and Christian scholarship The Theological Educator ,1991 Trust in Theological Education Eve Parker, 2022-05-31 As those coming forward for ministerial training change and diversify is the way we learn theology changing too Integrity within our training institutions has often been assumed and granted to white male or those from the middle or upper classes This has come at the expense of the faith truths beliefs and perspectives offered by women people of colour indigenous theologies and the working classes whose testimonies have often been ignored or marginalised by the dominant discourses that have been deemed more trustworthy as a consequence of the way in which imperialism has enabled knowledge and religion to be constructed and controlled Yet theological education also has a potential to challenge these norms It holds the potential to challenge oppressive cultures theologies and pedagogies Relying on feminist black indigent and postcolonial theologies Trust in Theological Education will deconstruct dominant models of theological education by incorporating ethnographic research alongside educational theory liberation theology and radical exegesis It will demonstrate theological educations potential to change and be transformed in order to enable those who have been excluded and marginalised to become speaking subjects and agents for systemic change Theological pedagogies:

Reflections on person, place, process and practices in teaching and learning theology in times of crisis Shantelle Weber , Bård Norheim , Ian Nell ,2026-02-28 In times of crisis the role of theology in education becomes increasingly vital The ability to navigate these challenging times requires innovative and effective teaching practices that are grounded in both traditional and contemporary pedagogical insights This scholarly book seeks to explore changing theological pedagogies in teaching theology with a particular focus on the person place process and practices involved in teaching and learning theology during times of crisis The following themes are explored Person How does the identity and background of the teacher and learner influence the teaching and learning of theology in times of crisis Place How does the physical cultural and social context of teaching theology impact pedagogical approaches during crises Process What teaching methods and strategies are most effective in facilitating theological learning and reflection during times of crisis Practices What are the best practices for integrating theory and practice in teaching theology especially in times of crisis Transforming

Theological Education Perry Shaw,2014-05-14 For several decades concern has been expressed about the need for greater integration and contextual significance in the curricular design of theological education In addition there has been a growing awareness of the role theological schools should play in strengthening the missional vision and practice of local churches Since 2008 the Arab Baptist Theological Seminary in Lebanon has been engaged in an ongoing experiment in the design and implementation of an integrated and contextually driven curriculum Drawing on lessons learned from this experience and from the wider discourse currently taking place in higher education Transforming Theological Education provides theoretical foundations and practical principles for purposeful curriculum design as well as tools for integrated and contextually significant learning in the classroom Leadership in Theological Education, Volume 1 Fritz Deininger,Orbelina

Matters Linda Cannell,2008-08-13 A description of factors affecting the future of theological schooling A Teacher of the Church Russ Moulds,2007-06-01 This book will deepen your regard for the church's task of didache the act of teaching Christians The chapters explore what the writers believe are several key biblical texts and themes for teaching select doctrines of the church that inform teaching as a ministry and features of teaching in the Lutheran tradition and its current practice We authors address these matters with deep commitment to our shared Lutheran tradition yet also with profound respect for what the Holy Spirit has done across the centuries in other orthodox traditions of the Great Church Welcome to our conversation a conversation the church has shared though not without dispute for centuries from Chapter 1 Jesus Christ, Learning Teacher Mark Chater,2020-10-30 The Christian presence in education has never been more controversial While some secularists oppose any form of religious involvement in schools or universities some Christians also wonder why the churches are there Conflicting narratives surround the purpose of Christian involvement in education Yet at the heart of Christianity stands an educator whose passion and resurrection can be understood afresh as learning But what does it mean to say that Jesus was a teacher If he was a good teacher was he also a learner Is today's Christian church learning Can educators help the church to recover a learning Christ who places learning at the heart of the Godhead and the church How could the Christian churches take the educational significance of Jesus more seriously Christian teachers often find themselves divided between a professional discourse on learning and making progress and a theological vocabulary which they do not fully own connecting only sporadically with their professional identity This book helps educators to treat their teacher identity as a theological resource rather than an obstacle and in so doing to discover new insights on Christ which can be of relevance to the wider church and its mission Doing Theological Research Robert W. Pazmiño,2009-09-01

Webber, Theological Educator, and Issues in Theological Education Robert William Pazmiño,1981 Engaging Technology in Theological Education Mary E. Hess,2005-04-19 We live in a media culture surrounded by ever evolving digital technologies While state schools and secular organizations have embraced the new teaching tools and models for learning that technology affords religious institutions have struggled with how and why to do the same All that we can t leave behind Engaging technology in theological education is a breakthrough book that invites religious educators to both engage and adapt their pedagogy to incorporate new media and technology Drawing from her expertise as a seminary professor and consultant to religious institutions on the use of technology in teaching Mary Hess invites professors pastors seminarians and anyone interested in religious education into critical reflection on ways of engaging technology to enhance learning and serve as critical interpreters within communities of faith

Integrating Work in Theological Education Kathleen A. Cahalan,Edward Foley,Gordon S. Mikoski,2017-03-09 If only we could do a better job of helping students at connecting the dots theological educators commonly lament Integration often proposed as a solution to the woes of professional education for ministry would help students integrate knowledge skills spirituality and integrity When these remain disconnected incompetence ensues and the cost runs high for churches denominations and ministers themselves However we fail in thinking that integrating work is for students alone It is a multifaceted constructive process of learning that is contextual reflective and dialogical It aims toward important ends competent leaders who can guide Christian communities today It entails rhythms not stages and dynamic movement including disintegration Integrating work is learning in motion across domains and among and between persons It is social and communal born of a life of learning together for faculty staff administrators and students It is work that bridges the long standing gaps between school ministry practice and life It s a verb not a noun Here a diverse group of theological educators through descriptive case studies theological reflection and theory building offer a distinctive contribution to understanding integrating work and how best to achieve it across three domains in community curriculums and courses
