Thinking Through the Environment Mark J. Smith, 1999 This broad ranging and thought provoking set of readings stresses the diversity of responses in the way the natural environment has been understood and questioned in the modern world Thinking through Landscape Augustin Berque, 2020-09-23 Our attitude to nature has changed over time This book explores the historical literary and philosophical origins of the changes in our attitude to nature that allowed environmental catastrophes to happen The book presents a philosophical reflection on human societies attitude to the environment informed by the history of the concept of landscape and the role played by the concept of nature in the human imagination It features a wealth of examples from around the world to help understand the contemporary environmental crisis in the context of both the built and natural environment Berque locates the start of this change in human labour and urban elites being cut off from nature Nature became an imaginary construct masking our real interaction with the natural world He argues that this gave rise to a theoretical and literary appreciation of landscape at the expense of an effective practical engagement with nature This mindset is a general feature of the world s civilizations manifested in similar ways in different cultures across Europe China North Africa and Australia Yet this approach did not have disastrous consequences until the advent of western industrialization As a phenomenological hermeneutics of human societies environmental relation to nature the book draws on Heideggerian ontology and Veblen s sociology It provides a powerful distinction between two attitudes to landscape the tacit knowledge of earlier peoples engaged in creating the landscape through their work landscaping thought and the explicit theoretical and aesthetic attitudes of modern city dwellers who love nature while belonging to a civilization that destroys the landscape landscape thinking This book gives a critical survey of landscape thought and theory for students researchers and anyone interested in human societies relation to nature in the fields of landscape studies environmental philosophy cultural geography and environmental history How Much Should a Person Consume? Ramachandra Guha, 2006 Thinking Through Place on the Early Modern English Stage Andrew Bozio, 2020-02-06 Thinking Through Place on the Early Modern English Stage argues that environment and embodied thought continually shaped one another in the performance of early modern English drama It demonstrates this first by establishing how characters think through their surroundings not only how they orient themselves within unfamiliar or otherwise strange locations but also how their environs function as the scaffolding for perception memory and other forms of embodied thought It then contends that these moments of thinking through place theorise and thematise the work that playgoers undertook in reimagining the stage as the setting of the dramatic fiction By tracing the relationship between these two registers of thought in such plays as The Malcontent Dido Queen of Carthage Tamburlaine King Lear The Knight of the Burning Pestle and Bartholomew Fair this book shows that drama makes visible the often invisible means by which embodied subjects acquire a sense of their surroundings It also reveals how in doing so theatre altered the way that playgoers perceived experienced and imagined place in early modern

Strategic thinking in Government Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Public Administration Select Committee,2012-04-24 In the light of recent concerns about a strategic vacuum at the centre of Government this Report explores the capacity of Ministers and officials to carry out long term strategic thinking to tackle the complex diverse and unpredictable domestic and global challenges the country faces It finds that an absence of clear and precise definition of terms meant that policy and different levels of strategy became muddled leading to unintended and unwelcome outcomes Drawing on the evidence it received the Report sets out clear definitions for national or grand strategy operational strategy and policy PASC have produced a number of recommendations to overcome the barriers to working strategically in Government Central to these recommendations is that the Government should publish an annual Statement of National Strategy in Parliament which reflects the interests of all parts of the UK and the devolved policy agendas The report states that the Cabinet and its committees are accountable for decisions but there remains a critical unfulfilled role at the centre of Government in coordinating and reconciling priorities across departments and of long term and short term goals The report concludes that the government's six strategic aims as provided to PASC are too meaningless to serve any useful purpose The strategic aims of the Government informed by public opinion should reflect the UK's national character assets capabilities interests and values and provide an indication of the objectives which policies must achieve
