War For The Cities:

The Spatiality of Violence in Post-war Cities Emma Elfvérsson, Ivan Gusic, Kristine Höglund, 2020-05-21 The Spatiality of Violence in Post war Cities analyses violence in post war cities from different perspectives and in different parts of the world with a shared attention to space and how it affects violent dynamics The world is urbanising rapidly and cities are increasingly held as the most important arenas for sustainable development Cities emerging from war are no exception but across the globe many post war cities are ravaged by residual or renewed violence which threatens progress towards peace and stability This volume addresses why such violence happens where and how it manifests and how it can be prevented It includes contributions that are informed by both post war logics and urban particularities that take intra city dynamics into account and that adopt a spatial analysis of the city They focus on cases around the world including Medell n Colombia Johannesburg South Africa and Mitrovica Kosovo The volume makes a threefold contribution to the research agenda on violence in post war cities First the contributions nuance our understanding of the causes and forms of the uneven spatial distribution of violence insecurities and trauma within and across post war cities Second the collection demonstrates how urban planning and the built environment shape and generate different forms of violence in post war cities Third the contributions explore the challenges opportunities and potential unintended consequences of conflict resolution in violent urban settings Providing novel insights into the causes and dynamics of violence in post war cities and challenges and opportunities for violence reduction The Spatiality of Violence in Post war Cities will be of great interest to scholars of peace violence conflict and its resolution urban studies built environment and planning The chapters were originally published as a special issue of Third World Thematics

Cold War Cities Richard Brook, Martin Dodge, Jonathan Hogg, 2020-12-20 This book examines the impact of the Cold War in a global context and focuses on city scale reactions to the atomic warfare It explores urbanism as a weapon to combat the dangers of the communist intrusion into the American territories and promote living standards for the urban poor in the US cities The Cold War saw the birth of atomic urbanisation central to which were planning politics and cultural practices of the newly emerged cities This book examines cities in the Arctic Europe Asia and Australasia in detail to reveal how military political resistance and cultural practices impacted on the spaces of everyday life It probes questions of city planning and development such as How did the threat of nuclear war affect planning at a range of geographic scales What were the patterns of the built environment architectural forms and material aesthetics of atomic urbanism in difference places And how did the Bomb manifest itself in civic governance popular media arts and academia Understanding the age of atomic urbanism can help meet the contemporary challenges that cities are facing The book delivers a new dimension to the existing debates of the ideologically opposed superpowers and their allies their hemispherical geopolitical struggles and helps to understand decades of growth post Second World War by foregrounding the Cold War
