Wright Studies:

Wright Studies Frank Lloyd Wright, 1992 Nuclear Science Abstracts , 1966 Science, Religion, and the Human Experience James D. Proctor, 2005 This collection of essays looks at the relationship between science and religion The book begins from the premise that both science and religion operate in yet seek to reach beyond specific historical political ideological and psychological contexts Science and Christianity in Pulpit and Pew Ronald L. Numbers, 2007-09-10 These essays address broad topics such as the popularization of scientific ideas secularization and the development of the naturalistic worldview Frank Lloyd Wright's Fallingwater Catherine W Zipf, 2020-12-30 New Deal Book Award 2022 Honourable Mention Frank Lloyd Wright's Fallingwater explores the relationship between the economic tumult in the United States in the 1930s Frank Lloyd Wright and the construction of his most famous house Fallingwater The book reinterprets the history of this iconic building recognizing it as a Depression era monument that stands as a testimony to what an American architect could achieve with the right site client and circumstance even in desperate economic circumstances Using newly available resources author Catherine W Zipf examines Wright's work before and after Fallingwater to show how it was influenced by the economic climate public architectural projects of the Great Depression and America's changing relationship with Modernist style and technology Including over 50 black and white images this book will be of great interest to students historians and researchers of art architecture and Frank Lloyd Wright Science in the Early Twentieth Century Jacob Darwin Hamblin, 2005-03-08 The first A Z resource on the history of science from 1900 to 1950 examining the dynamic between science and the social political and cultural forces of the era Though many books have highlighted the great scientific discoveries of the early 1900s few have tackled the wider context in which these milestones were achieved Science in the Early Twentieth Century covers everything from quantum physics to penicillin and more including all the major scientific developments of the period detailing not only the scientists and their work but also the social and political forces that dominated the scientific agenda Over 200 A Z entries chronicle the landmark scientific discoveries and personalities of the period including such scientific giants as Albert Einstein and Marie Curie Placing science firmly within its cultural context this thoroughly researched accessible resource takes a uniquely interdisciplinary approach making it an invaluable text for scientists educators students and the general reader Report of the Michigan Academy of Science Michigan Academy of Science, Arts, and Letters, Michigan Academy of Science. Council, 1908 The Creationists Ronald L. Numbers, 1993-01-01 Forty seven percent of the American people according to a 1991 Gallup poll believe that God made man as man is now in a single act of creation and within the last ten thousand years Ronald L Numbers chronicles the astonishing resurgence of this belief since the 1960s as well as the creationist movement's tangled roots in the theologies of late nineteenth and early twentieth century Baptists Presbyterians Lutherans Adventists and other religious groups Even more remarkable than Numbers's story of today's widespread rejection of the theory of evolution is the dramatic shift from acceptance of the earth's antiquity to the insistence of present day scientific creationists that most fossils date back to Noah's flood and its aftermath and that the earth itself is not more than ten thousand years old Numbers traces the evolution of scientific creationism and shows how the creationist movement challenges the very meaning of science
