SPARK ACTION - How To Lead Change

The Future of Work: Leaders Succeed in Disruption

Do you want to become a leader in the future of work? The future of work is rapidly changing, and leaders who are able to navigate this change will be the ones who succeed. This guide provides a framework for how to lead change in a disruptive environment.

1. Understand the future of work
The future of work is being shaped by a number of factors, including automation, artificial intelligence, and the gig economy. Leaders need to understand these trends and how they will impact their organization.

2. Communicate the vision
Leaders need to communicate a clear vision of the future of work to their team. This vision should be based on a deep understanding of the organization's strengths and weaknesses, and the opportunities and challenges ahead.

3. Empower your team
Leaders need to empower their team to take ownership of their work. This means providing them with the resources, training, and support they need to succeed.

4. Encourage innovation
Leaders need to encourage their team to think creatively and come up with new ideas. This can be done by creating a safe environment where team members feel comfortable sharing their ideas, and by rewarding innovation.

5. Be a role model
Leaders need to be a role model for their team. This means demonstrating the behaviors and attitudes that they want to see in their team.

6. Stay positive
Leaders need to stay positive in the face of change. This is especially important in a disruptive environment, where there are many challenges and uncertainties.

7. Be a team player
Leaders need to be a team player. This means working closely with their team and other leaders in the organization to achieve common goals.

The Future of Training in Psychotherapy and Counselling John Rowan,2014-02-25 The Future of Training in Psychotherapy and Counselling presents a revealing and stimulating account of the current state of training that demonstrates how training will have to adapt if it is to successfully meet the needs and challenges of the future In an attempt to look afresh at the whole question of training John Rowan proposes that there are three ways of doing therapy and any examination of training has to consider each of these the instrumental where the main emphasis is on the treating the client or patient the authentic way where the main emphasis is on meeting the client or patient the transpersonal way where main emphasis is on linking with the client in a more personal way Each approach makes different assumptions about the self about the relationship and about the level of consciousness involved in doing therapy By challenging the basic precepts of traditional training John Rowan encourages the reader to reconsider subjects including the difference between counselling and psychotherapy culture and ethics the origins of disturbance in clients and child development The Future of Training in Psychotherapy and Counselling provides a much needed new perspective that will compel all psychotherapists and counsellors to take a closer look at training in the field
