

A Knowledge and Skills Practice Framework: integrating theory and practice in social work

The importance of critical thinking, analysis and critical reflection/reflexivity – and locating the relationship at the heart of social work practice

Relationship-based practice promotes the view that the relationships we create are fundamental to understanding and action, and it is this understanding - and the meaning given to experience - that shapes the way we work with people. The aware and unaware emotions, feelings & behaviour that all parties bring to an encounter, and the impact of wider social factors, constitute a central element of the understanding that is achieved and the actions based on that understanding" (Trevithick 2016)
