Teachers Doing Research Practical Possibilities:

Teachers Doing Research Gail E. Burnaford, Joseph Fischer, David Hobson, 1996 Teachers are often reluctant to change their practices in response to each new staff development workshop that appears on the horizon What then compels a teacher to explore teaching and learning in his or her own classroom and then implement change that affects the life of that classroom What is the nature of the collaborative process that can engender teacher research leading to subsequent change How can educational leaders facilitate this process These are central questions addressed in Teachers Doing Research The process and application of developing implementing and evaluating teacher action research in collaborative group settings is explored A practical approach to doing teacher research including descriptive analysis of initiating the inquiry gathering data analyzing results and evaluating the project is set within the larger context of qualitative research and draws on the research and literature of teacher as researcher coupled with that on staff development in school and university settings In this text chapters providing the conceptual framework and process descriptions are interwoven with nine teacher researchers narratives of their classroom research in a variety of grade levels and school contexts concrete connections are made to curriculum development approaches and instructional decision making the important role that students may play in classroom inquiry is recognized with numerous examples given of how young people can be co researchers to enhance their own learning and Practical Possibilities sections provide activities questions and writing opportunities designed to contribute to teachers professional development

Teachers Doing Research Gail E. Burnaford, Joseph Fischer, David Hobson, 1996-01-01 Teachers are often reluctant to change their practices in response to each new staff development workshop that appears on the horizon What then compels a teacher to explore teaching and learning in his or her own classroom and then implement change that affects the life of that classroom What is the nature of the collaborative process that can engender teacher research leading to subsequent change How can educational leaders facilitate this process These are central questions addressed in Teachers Doing Research Handbook of Instructional Practices for Literacy

Teacher-educators Joyce E. Many, 2001-01-01 This volume offers a unique glimpse into the teaching approaches and thinking of a wide range of well known literacy researchers and the lessons they have learned from their own teaching lives The contributors teach in a variety of universities programs and settings Each shares an approach he or she has used in a course and introduces the syllabus for this course through personal reflections that give the reader a sense of the theories prior experiences and influential authors that have shaped their own thoughts and approaches In addition to describing the nature of their students and the program in which the course is taught many authors also share key issues with which they have grappled over the years while teaching their course others discuss considerations that were relevant during the preparation of this particular syllabus or describe how it evolved in light of student input The book is organized by areas within literacy education reading English language arts literature emergent literacy content area literacy literacy assessment and instruction literacy and technology and inquiries into literacy theory and classroom practice It is accompanied by an interactive Web site <http://msit.gsu.edu/handbook> This online resource provides additional information about the authors courses including complete syllabi recommended readings grading rubrics and sample assignments Readers are invited to respond and contribute their own syllabi and teaching experiences to the discourse generated by the volume Becoming a Better Teacher Giselle O. Martin-Kniep,2000-11-15 This book provides K 12 educators with key information about some of the most effective teaching and learning tools available today in one convenient publication Each of the innovations has a long history of use and has been researched and evaluated in a variety of settings Giselle Martin Kniep chose these specific innovations because as a whole they foster a student centered classroom environment that is both equitable and rigorous In separate chapters for each topic she addresses 1 essential questions 2 curriculum integration 3 standards based curriculum and assessment design 4 authentic assessment 5 scoring rubrics 6 portfolios 7 reflection and 8 action research Annotated lists of recommended resources provide suggestions for further exploration of each topic Readers new to these topics will gain a basic understanding of each and learn how to use them to create a student centered classroom More experienced educators can also benefit from reexamining these innovations and considering them as parts of a comprehensive whole Numerous examples from all grade levels along with design modules templates and checklists make this an invaluable guide for teachers and administrators Note This product listing is for the Adobe Acrobat PDF version of the book Improving Teacher Education Practice Through Self-study John Loughran, Tom Russell,2004-11-23 Self study in teacher education is a growing field and a natural progression from the concept of reflective practice for pre service teachers This book is designed to introduce teacher educators to the theory and practice of self study in order to explore understand and improve their teaching about teaching With studies from an international range of contributors this book illustrates a variety of approaches to self study It describes the issues that teacher educators have chosen to study how they carried out their research and what the learning outcomes were Throughout the emphasis is on placing teacher educators knowledge and practice at the centre of their academic work This book will be of interest to all teacher educators wishing to improve their knowledge and practice
