Trigger,1990-01-26 Examining the history of archaeology from medieval times to the present this book places the development of archaeological thought and theory within a broad social and intellectual framework The successive but interacting trends apparent in archaeological thought are defined and the author determines the extent to which these trends reflect the personal and collective interests of archaeologists He argues that while subjective influences have been powerful the gradual accumulation of archaeological data has exercised a growing constraint on interpretation In turn this has increased the objectivity of archaeological research and enhanced its value for understanding the entire span of human history and the human condition in general From Antiquarian to Archaeologist Tim Murray,2014-04-16 Brings together fourteen of Tim Murray s papers on the history philosophy and sociology of archaeology published over two decades Bulletin of the History of Archaeology This volume forms a collection of papers tracking the emergence of the history of archaeology from a subject of marginal status in the 1980s to the mainstream subject which it is today Professor Timothy Murray s essays have been widely cited and track over twenty years in the development of the subject The papers are accompanied by a new introduction which surveys the development of the subject over the last twenty five years as well as a reflection of what this means for the philosophy of archaeology and theoretical archaeology This volume spans Tim s successful career as an academic at the forefront of the study of the history of archaeology both in Australia and internationally During his career he has held posts in Britain and Europe as well as Australia He has edited the Bulletin of the History of Archaeology since 2003 A New Critical Approach to the History of Palestine Ingrid Hjelm,Hamdan

Taha, Ilan Pappé, Thomas L. Thompson, 2019-06-07 A New Critical Approach to the History of Palestine discusses prospects and methods for a comprehensive evidence based history of Palestine with a critical use of recent historical archaeological and anthropological methods. This history is not an exclusive history but one that is ethnically and culturally inclusive a history of and for all peoples who have lived in Palestine. After an introductory essay offering a strategy for creating coherence and continuity from the earliest beginnings to the present the volume presents twenty articles from twenty two contributors fifteen of whom are of Middle Eastern origin or relation. Split thematically into four parts the volume discusses ideology national identity and chronology in various historiographies of Palestine and the legacy of memory and oral history the transient character of ethnicity in Palestine and questions regarding the ethical responsibilities of archaeologists and historians to protect the multi ethnic cultural heritage of Palestine landscape and memory and the values of community archaeology and bio archaeology and an exploration of the ideology of the land and its influence on Palestine s history and heritage. The first in a series of books under the auspices of the Palestine History and Heritage Project PaHH the volume offers a challenging new departure for writing the history of Palestine and Israel throughout the ages. A New Critical Approach to the History of Palestine explores the diverse history of the region against the backdrop of twentieth century scholarly construction of the history of Palestine as a history of a Jewish homeland with roots in an ancient biblical Israel and examines the implications of this ancient and recent history for archaeology and cultural heritage. The book offers a fascinating new perspective for students and academics in the fields of anthropological political cultural and biblical history.
