Man the Hunted

Donna Hart, 2018-04-17 Man the Hunted argues that primates including the earliest members of the human family have evolved as the prey of any number of predators including wild cats and dogs hyenas snakes crocodiles and even birds The authors studies of predators on monkeys and apes are supplemented here with the observations of naturalists in the field and revealing interpretations of the fossil record Eyewitness accounts of the man the hunted drama being played out even now give vivid evidence of its prehistoric significance This provocative view of human evolution suggests that countless adaptations that have allowed our species to survive from larger brains to speech stem from a considerably more vulnerable position on the food chain than we might like to imagine The myth of early humans as fearless hunters dominating the earth obscures our origins as just one of many species that had to be cautious depend on other group members communicate danger and come to terms with being merely one cog in the complex cycle of life

Primate and Human Evolution Susan Cachel, 2021-05-27 Primate and Human Evolution provides a synthesis of the evolution and adaptive significance of human anatomical physiological and behavioral traits Using paleontology and modern human variation and biology it compares hominid traits to those of other catarrhine primates both living and extinct presenting a new hominization model that does not depend solely on global climate change but on predictable trends observed in catarrhines Dealing with the origins of hominid tool use and tool manufacture it compares tool behavior in other animals and incorporates information from the earliest archaeological record Examining the use of non human primates and other mammals in modeling the origins of early human social behavior Susan Cachel argues that human intelligence does not arise from complex social interactions but from attentiveness to the natural world This book will be a rich source of inspiration for all those interested in the evolution of all primates including ourselves
