Ideas toward a Phenomenology of Interruptions Cameron Bassiri, 2018-05-16 This text is the first book length analysis of the problem of the relations between time sleep and the body in Husserl's phenomenology Ideas toward a Phenomenology of Interruptions reconfigures the unity of the life of subjectivity in light of the phenomenon of dreamless sleep supplements Husserl's analyses of subjectivity through integrating interruptions into the life of consciousness and establishes a new phenomenological concept of subjectivity that is a fractured subject In analyzing the phenomenon of dreamless sleep the author develops a new theory of the body namely the sleeping body and explains the importance of the lived body in the experience and constitution of time The author analyzes the moments of falling asleep and waking up as well as the period of dreamless sleep and shows that a more complete phenomenological concept of subjectivity requires attention to the interweaving of continuity and discontinuity This project therefore aims to provide a critical counterpart to Husserl's analyses by developing his transcendental phenomenology into a phenomenology of interruptions Through this account of dreamless sleep this text shows furthermore that subjectivity ceases to perceive and experience the flow of time through retention protention and the primal impression and that the time that is not lived through during this period is lost time Moreover it explores the methodological consequences of interruptions for phenomenology and shows that phenomenology reaches its limits in the phenomena of dreamless sleep because it is incapable of fully accessing or accounting for them through the phenomenological reduction

The Word, 1908 Catalyst One Robert E. Rushton, 2004 A matrix of Morality wisdom Philosophy insights Diplomatic cynicism Common sense impressions Whimsy freak notions Personal love relations
