

A dirt road winds through a field of red flowers under a cloudy sky. The road is the central focus, leading the eye from the foreground into the distance. The flowers are a vibrant red, and the sky is a soft, overcast grey. The overall mood is serene and contemplative.

Each of us has two minds: a waking mind and a sleeping mind. Our waking mind is what thinks and talks and reasons. But the sleeping mind is more powerful. It sees deeply to the heart of things. It is the part of us that dreams. It remembers everything. It gives us intuition. Your waking mind does not understand the nature of names. Your sleeping mind does. It already knows many things that your waking mind does not.
