The 5x questions checklist for an effective hybrid workplace model

01 What do people want?

As mentioned above, a successful hybrid work strategy and hybrid workplace model can only work if it's designed for the people.

Before making any significant decisions or investments, it's important to understand the preferences, needs, and expectations of the people you want to work for. This includes understanding their work styles, their preferences for work environments, and their needs for flexibility and autonomy.

The way to build a hybrid work model is to start with the people and work backwards. This means understanding the needs and preferences of the people you want to work for, and then designing a hybrid work model that meets those needs and preferences.

How do you know if you've built a successful hybrid workplace model? There are several key indicators to look for. First, you should see an increase in employee engagement and productivity. Second, you should see a decrease in employee turnover and absenteeism. Third, you should see an increase in employee satisfaction and well-being. If you see these indicators, you know you've built a successful hybrid workplace model.
