posthumanist decolonial and feminist approaches the Handbook presents a unique variety of both critical and affirmative reflections upon the world's intersecting necropowers and ethico-political potentials for social and environmental change. Contributors speculate on ways to reimagine life-death relations as vibrant entanglements. They also investigate modes of mourning differently resisting necropolitical regimes that deem human and non-human individuals and populations to be disposable and non-grievable when they differ too much from the normative modern subject Universal Man in terms of intersections of gender, racialisation, class, sexuality, embodiment, embrainment, geopolitical positioning or species. A thought-provoking read, this Handbook is intended for broad global audiences of researchers, artists, teachers, students, death professionals, health careworkers, activists and NGOs interested in tools to rethink and reimagine death, dying, mourning and afterlife from intersections of queering, decolonising, posthumanising and feminist perspectives.

Life Sciences Amy Bain, Janet Richer, Janet Weckman, 2001-05-15. Everything you need to create exciting thematic science units can be found in these handy guides. Developed for educators who want to take an integrated approach, these teaching kits contain resource lists, reading selections and activities that can be easily pulled together for units on virtually any science topic. Arranged by subject, each book lists key scientific concepts for primary, intermediate and upper-level learners and links them to specific chapters where resources for teaching those concepts appear. Chapters identify and describe comprehensive teaching resources, nonfiction and related fiction, reading selections, then detail hands-on science and extension activities that help students learn the scientific method and build learning across the curriculum. A final section helps you locate helpful experiment books and appropriate journals, Web sites, agencies and related organizations.

Narrating the Multispecies World Michaela Fenske, 2025-04-17. In present times we are increasingly witnessing a loss of life, especially among animals and plants. Some species are becoming extinct while others struggle to adjust to new habitats. Human beings are looking for strategies to overcome the effects of climate change and mass extinction. The contributors to this volume reflect on how the current problems affect the living world. Artists and scholars from around the world share their views on the changes and challenges produced by the effects of the ecological crises in a variety of regions. While some of their stories concern loss, others offer hope by suggesting new ideas for living together in sustainable harmony within a multispecies world.
