Towards a Spiritual Humanism Hasan Askari, Jon Avery, 1991      Spiritual Humanism Louis Carini, 2001-01-12

Astronomers discarded first hand visual observations because each observer measured a star's transit as occurring at a different time. Physicists soon followed them so that now instrumental measurements are the only data that physics and astronomy accept. The theory of evolution followed them in that physicalist mode by accounting only for the physical survival of organisms. That is why their sciences deny the existence of anything of a spiritual nature. This little book examines their theorized big bang beginning and the physicalist theory of evolution in the light of the newly measured human consciousness through whose thinking processes both of those sciences arose. Spiritual humanism aims to provide a nondogmatic faith in humanity and in principles which place human beings, their values, their thinking, and their enspirited consciousnesses as central to creating all of our sciences. The spiritual aspect arises especially from our consciousness which allows us to reflect upon what is in our awareness. The qualities of our awarenesses and consciousness are explained by the anthropomorphic theory of human perception which attributes human qualities even to our senses. The book suggests that consciousness places us in a realm of being beyond the physical. Though our physical brains are proposed as the basis for that consciousness, the outcome in consciousness creates a spiritual quality in human beings. Spiritual humanism accordingly is concerned with human beings and is centered entirely in this human world rather than in any other. Thus a non-dogmatic spiritual humanism for fostering the potentialities in human beings in this world is what this little book means to provide. The experiences of the young Helen Keller show how consciousness becomes the basis for disinterested interests, the ability to be deeply engrossed in something unrelated to our own self-interest. That disinterested interest is what lies behind our engagements with the arts, the sciences, and our religious aspirations. The assumption of an entirely physical origin for the physicists' theoretical big bang along with Darwin's physicalist theory of evolution are criticized because both methodologies preclude finding anything of the spirit. A reinterpretation of what follows from these critiques and the positive formulation of the humanist science of anthropomorphic optics and its implications are what the book provides.

Faith Based on Universal Truths & Science: Spiritual Humanism Chanele TheRockStar, 2013-05-19. Humanism is a tradition of values that emphasizes the importance of human dignity, virtue, capabilities, and concerns. It does not directly consider the question of the existence of God but rather the morality and ethics of human conduct for humanists the morality of the individual's conduct remains a crucial consideration whether or not a god exists hence there are both theist and atheist humanists Of the ethics which underlay humanist philosophy rationality is strongly emphasized those who follow this philosophy strive to base all of their convictions religious or secular on sound evidence and reasoning New Confucian Horizons Jonathan Keir, Peter C. Phan, Young-chan Ro, 2024-10-08 This book offers a reflection on Tu Weiming's legacy and deals with Confucianism and New Confucianism and Tu Weiming's contribution to both of these Chinese philosophical traditions studies how Confucianism has been received especially in Asia and considers Confucianism in connection with contemporary challenges investigation with a particular focus on the movies underlying spiritual vision The shape of Spiritual Humanism emerges from these findings The focus for this project has been on Golden Kalf winning movies from 2000 2005 While studying the films individually it became evident that each shed light on the other either by affirming earlier positive findings or by enlarging and showing off wrong headed directions in life Discussing the films in pairs of two surfaced as the natural and most fruitful approach Chapter V draws the contours of Spiritual Humanism in terms of four interconnected layers of spirituality Chief among them is the Spirituality of Being with Oneself authenticity The Spiritualities of Being in Relationship presence belonging resistance and risk and Spiritualities of Being in the World freedom and responsibility provide the navigational tools for life s journey Most important for understanding Spiritual Humanism is what I have called the Spirituality of Being in Contingency chance or providence which provides the basis for interpreting and integrating life s experience The metaphor of pilgrimage gives the enabling framework to visualize today s spiritual humanist s spirituality in everyday life The implications of our findings for the theological dialogue and the place of the church in society are worked out in Chapter VI This section centers on the biblical and theological vision of General Revelation in relationship to Special Revelation The impact of contemporary science such as evolution and the developing understanding of human consciousness is part of this discussion Guidance for this dialogue comes from among others Gerardus van der Leeuw s phenomenology of religion and Wolfhart Pannenberg s pneumatology
