The Age Of Dryden

John Dryden

The Age Of Dryden:

The Major Works John Dryden, 2003 John Dryden 1631-1700 was the leading writer of his day and a major cultural spokesman following the restoration of Charles II in 1660. His work includes political poems, satire, religious apologies, translations, critical essays, and plays. This authoritative edition brings together a unique combination of Dryden's poetry and prose, all the major poems in full, literary criticism, and translations to give the essence of his work and thinking. The collection includes the poems MacFlecknoe and Absalom and Achitophel, as well as Dryden's classical translations, his versions of Homer, Horace, and Ovid, reproduced in full. There are also substantial selections from Dryden's Virgil, Juvenal, and other classical writers, Fables Ancient and Modern taken from Chaucer, Ovid, Boccaccio, and Homer, his last and possibly greatest work also appears in full.

The Age of Elizabeth in the Age of Johnson Jack Lynch, 2002-12-12 In The Age of Elizabeth in the Age of Johnson Jack Lynch explores eighteenth-century British conceptions of the Renaissance and the historical, intellectual, and cultural uses to which the past was put during the period. Scholars, editors, historians, religious thinkers, linguists, and literary critics of the period all defined themselves in relation to the last age or the age of Elizabeth. Seventeenth- and eighteenth-century thinkers reworked older historical schemes to suit their own needs, turning to the ages of Petrarch and Poliziano, Erasmus, and Scaliger, Shakespeare, Spenser, and Queen Elizabeth to define their culture in contrast to the preceding age. They derived a powerful sense of modernity from the comparison, which proved essential to the constitution of a national character. This interdisciplinary study will be of interest to cultural as well as literary historians of the eighteenth century.

Early Modern Histories of Time Kristen Poole, Owen Williams, 2019-10-11 Early Modern Histories of Time examines how a range of chronological modes intrinsic to the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries shaped the thought worlds of those living during this time and explores how these temporally indigenous models can productively influence our own working concepts of historical period. This innovative approach thus moves beyond debates about where we should divide linear time and what to call the ensuing segments to reconsider the very concept of period. Bringing together an eminent cast of literary scholars and historians, the volume develops productive historical models by drawing on the very texts and cultural contexts that are their objects of study. What happens to the idea of period when English literature is properly placed within the dynamic currents of pan-European literary phenomena? How might we think of historical period through the palimpsested nature of buildings, through the religious concept of the secular, through the demographic model of the life cycle, even through the repetitive labor of laundering? From theology to material culture, to the temporal constructions of Shakespeare and from the politics of space to the poetics of typology, the essays in this volume take up diverse, complex models of sixteenth- and seventeenth-century temporality and contemplate their current relevance for our own ideas of history. The volume thus embraces the ambiguity inherent in the word contemporary, moving between our subjects' sense of self-emplacement and the historiographical need to address the questions and concerns that affect us today Contributors Douglas Bruster Euan Cameron Heather Dubrow Kate Giles Tim Harris Natasha Korda Julia Reinhard Lupton Kristen Poole Ethan H Shagan James Simpson Nigel Smith Mihoko Suzuki Gordon Teskey Julianne Werlin Owen Williams Steven N Zwicker
