The Defender Roger Franklin, 1986 The Hypersonic Revolution: The quest for the orbital jet, the National Aero-Space Plane Program. 1983-1995 ,1998 Encyclopedia of Military Science G. Kurt Piehler, 2013-07-24 The Encyclopedia of Military Science provides a comprehensive ready reference on the organization traditions training purpose and functions of today's military Entries in this four volume work include coverage of the duties responsibilities and authority of military personnel and an understanding of strategies and tactics of the modern military and how they interface with political social legal economic and technological factors A large component is devoted to issues of leadership group dynamics motivation problem solving and decision making in the military context Finally this work also covers recent American military history since the end of the Cold War with a special emphasis on peacekeeping and peacemaking operations the First Persian Gulf War the events surrounding 9 11 and the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq and how the military has been changing in relation to these events Click here to read an article on The Daily Beast by Encyclopedia editor G Kurt Piehler Why Don't We Build Statues For Our War Heroes Anymore Pushing the Envelope Donald M. Pattillo, 2025-12-10 Pushing the Envelope a survey history of the American aircraft now aerospace manufacturing industry is the most comprehensive history on the subject ever completed Though it covers the development of the industry from the beginnings of flight to the present it provides far more than a simple chronology by analyzing key economic military technical and international influences on the industry and showing how the industry has been instrumental in American military and technological leadership from its modest beginnings Using original sources whenever available Pushing the Envelope focuses on the business of aircraft It is neither an aeronautical nor a production history of the industry although both aspects are addressed Instead Donald M Pattillo features the development and production of aircraft in different periods in the context of aeronautical progress Pushing the Envelope also establishes that the central fact of the industry's existence its dependence on military contracts has been simultaneously its greatest strength and greatest vulnerability Even during periods of military expansion Pattillo illustrates it has always been an unstable and insecure enterprise Carefully researched Pushing the Envelope also assesses the environmental impacts on the industry including those pressures that have often led it into ethical dispute Unlike any other technological industry the unique qualities of the aircraft industry are truly paradoxical although it provides vital technical and production capability to the nation demand for its capabilities may be influenced by external developments that it cannot foresee or influence Pushing the Envelope transcends narrow disciplines commingling aeronautical science and technology business management international business the history of science and technology national security studies and international relations Written in nontechnical language it can easily be understood by a diverse audience including industry and military professionals as well as the general public interested in aviation and technology Critical Issues in the History of Spaceflight Stephen J. Dick, Steven J. Dick, Roger D. Launius, 2006 In March 2005 the NASA History Division and the Division of Space History at the National Air and Space Museum brought together a distinguished group of scholars to consider the state of the discipline of space history This volume is a collection of essays based on those deliberations The meeting took place at a time of extraordinary transformation for NASA stemming from the new Vision of Space Exploration announced by President George W Bush in January 2004 to go to the Moon Mars and beyond This Vision in turn stemmed from a deep reevaluation of NASA's goals in the wake of the Space Shuttle Columbia accident and the recommendations of the Columbia Accident Investigation Board The new goals were seen as initiating a New Age of Exploration and were placed in the context of the importance of exploration and discovery to the American experience
