Storytelling Magazine, 2006 An Introduction to Storytelling Christine Willison, 2018-06-28 Where do stories come from and how do we come to know them Daughters listen with wonder to their grandmothers tales Journalists have their trusted sources Writers of storybooks draw unconsciously from the works of their predecessors It is as if every story has within it an infallible truth contained in the echo of its original telling The storyteller recounts the tale The listener hears learns and remembers In due course they will retell the same tale adding in something of their own And so listeners in time turn into storytellers This inspiring book brings together the stories from across the world of listeners who themselves became storytellers They reveal who influenced them the most what drew them further in what they learnt and what they now wish to share with new generations Tips tools and tales read this book and take your turn

Recreation, 1922 The Playground, 1921 The Future of Storytelling Charles Melcher, 2025-11-04 The first

foundational book on the next media renaissance from one of the foremost thought leaders at the intersection of storytelling and technology These days we don't want to just watch our media we want to be a part of it To touch feel and test our surroundings to make decisions that directly affect the story's outcome Immersive events such as the Stranger Things Experience and productions like Punchdrunk's Sleep No More are growing at such a staggering rate that their revenue will soon outpace film and television combined Investors creators and technology leaders from the likes of Apple Facebook and Netflix have quietly invested billions of dollars in this new medium But what makes immersive experiences so appealing and why What does it say about us as a culture And who is behind this revolution in entertainment For more than ten years Charles Melcher founder and director of Future of StoryTelling FoST has been invited into the studios garages offices and academic corridors where the rules of storytelling are being rewritten And in this eye opening book he has curated a selection of the very best immersive experiences from around the world Meow Wolf in the United States teamLab in Japan Hobbiton in New Zealand and many more It's a celebration of both the projects themselves and the extraordinarily creative people who have brought them to life and a clarion call to better understand and appreciate this paradigm shifting moment and the opportunities immersive entertainment offers for the next generation of creators businesspeople and audiences
