Price,Leah D. Rogers,2012 The Iowana Farms Milk Company factory building was considered to retain sufficient integrity and possess sufficient significance to be considered eligible for the National Register of Historic Places under Criteria A and C for its historical and architectural significance in the Bettendorf community The Iowana Farms Milk Company was an important early to mid twentieth century business in Bettendorf and was among the few that was not owned or operated by the Bettendorf Company It was a strong and thriving business for many years and its products were well known in the Quad Cities region The importance of this property becomes even more significant when one considers that most of the buildings once associated with the actual Bettendorf Company which was undeniably the most important business and industry in town are now gone As a result the Iowana Farms Milk Company factory building was a physical vestige of the once thriving commercial industries that made Bettendorf into a city in the twentieth century This property was further significant for its representation of the evolution of the dairy industry in the twentieth century from farm to factory production It also reflected the changes to the industry based on scientific discoveries mechanical innovations and governmental regulations related to improved sanitation and the pure milk movement The Iowana Farms Milk Company represented a model plant for the time and the marketing strategies it employed followed the trends of the industry The Iowana Farms Milk Company plant had to be removed to make room for a new I 74 bridge over the Mississippi River at Bettendorf The construction of the new bridge also required removal of the historic Iowa Illinois Memorial Bridge The documentation reported herein and for that of the Iowa Illinois Memorial Bridge fulfills the requirements of the Memorandum of Agreement regarding the removal of these historic properties The Federal Writers' Project Jeutonne P. Larsen,2007-06 From its birth as interdependent towns on the Missouri River frontier to its emergence as a metropolis straddling two states Omaha Council Bluffs has been one of the great urban construction projects in the nation s history Upstream Metropolis provides the first comprehensive history of this unique urban region that ranks 60th among the 370 major metropolitan areas in the United States Drawing on local newspapers and historical archives the authors deliver an anecdote rich account of how and why a large metropolitan area developed in this spot They also explain why it grew so big and no bigger but could never have remained two small towns Upstream Metropolis is an urban biography of the highest order tracing the lives of two cities which though divided by a river the problems of a state line and inevitable rivalry have always been inextricably linked This discussion moves from the freewheeling frontier days to the times of farming and railroads examining influences such as the populist movement the meatpacking industry immigration and ethnicity The highly readable result is a pioneering contribution to the history of urbanization in America America, History and Life ,1998 Article abstracts and citations of reviews and dissertations covering the United States and Canada Bibliographic Guide to North American History ,1986 The Limits of New Deal Social Democracy Wilson Jerome Warren,1996 AB Bookman's Weekly ,1993 Iowa Heritage Illustrated ,2001
