To the Distant Observer Noël Burch,1979-01-01      "To" Her Distant Observer Noël Burch,1979      The Japanese Cinema Book Hideaki Fujiki,Alastair Phillips,2020-04-02 The Japanese Cinema Book provides a new and comprehensive survey of one of the world s most fascinating and widely admired filmmaking regions In terms of its historical coverage broad thematic approach and the significant international range of its authors it is the largest and most wide ranging publication of its kind to date Ranging from renowned directors such as Akira Kurosawa to neglected popular genres such as the film musical and encompassing topics such as ecology spectatorship home movies colonial history and relations with Hollywood and Europe The Japanese Cinema Book presents a set of new and often surprising perspectives on Japanese film With its plural range of interdisciplinary perspectives based on the expertise of established and emerging scholars and critics The Japanese Cinema Book provides a groundbreaking picture of the different ways in which Japanese cinema may be understood as a local regional national transnational and global phenomenon The book s innovative structure combines general surveys of a particular historical topic or critical approach with various micro level case studies It argues there is no single fixed Japanese cinema but instead a fluid and varied field of Japanese filmmaking cultures that continue to exist in a dynamic relationship with other cinemas media and regions The Japanese Cinema Book is divided into seven inter related sections Theories and Approaches Institutions and Industry Film Style Genre Times and Spaces of Representation Social Contexts Flows and Interactions      The Cinema Book Bloomsbury Publishing,2019-07-25 The Cinema Book is widely recognised as the ultimate guide to cinema Authoritative and comprehensive the third edition has been extensively revised updated and expanded in response to developments in cinema and cinema studies Lavishly illustrated in colour this edition features a wealth of exciting new sections and in depth case studies Sections address Hollywood and other World cinema histories key genres in both fiction and non fiction film issues such as stars technology and authorship and major theoretical approaches to understanding film      Research Guide to Japanese Film Studies Abé Markus Nornes,Aaron Gerow,2016-02-02 The Research Guide to Japanese Film Studies provides a snapshot of all the archival and bibliographic resources available to students and scholars of Japanese cinema Among the nations of the world Japan has enjoyed an impressively lively print culture related to cinema The first film books and periodicals appeared shortly after the birth of cinema proliferating wildly in the 1910s with only the slightest pause in the dark days of World War II The numbers of publications match the enormous scale of film production but with the lack of support for film studies in Japan much of it remains as uncharted territory with few maps to negotiate the maze of material This book is the first comprehensive guide ever published for approaching the complex archive for Japanese cinema It lists all the libraries and film archives in the world with significant collections of film prints still photographs archival records books and periodicals It provides a full annotated bibliography of the core books and magazines for the field And it supplies hints for how to find and access materials for any research project Above and beyond that Nornes and Gerow's Research Guide to Japanese Film Studies constitutes a comprehensive overview of the impressive dimensions and depth of the print culture surrounding Japanese film and a guideline for future research in the field. This is an essential book for anyone seriously thinking about Japan and its cinema. Encyclopedia of the Documentary Film 3-Volume Set Ian Aitken, 2013-10-18. The Encyclopedia of the Documentary Film is a fully international reference work on the history of the documentary film from the Lumière brothers' Workers Leaving the Lumière Factory (1885) to Michael Moore's Fahrenheit 9/11 (2004). This encyclopedia provides a resource that critically analyzes that history in all its aspects. Not only does this encyclopedia examine individual films and the careers of individual film makers, it also provides overview articles of national and regional documentary film history. It explains concepts and themes in the study of documentary film, the techniques used in making films, and the institutions that support their production, appreciation, and preservation.

Patterns of Time

Donald Kiriwara, 1992. Donald Kiriwara examines in extraordinary detail the brilliant early works of one of the world's great film directors, offering an in-depth analysis of his career. Kiriwara's exploration of Mizoguchi within his national and cultural context marks a new step forward in the integration of film theory, historical research, and auteur criticism.

How to Read a Film James Monaco, 1981. Now thoroughly revised and updated, the book discusses recent breakthroughs in media technology, including such exciting advances as video discs, cassettes, two-way television, satellites, cable, and much more.

World War II, Film, and History John Whiteclay Chambers II, David Culbert, 1996-10-10. The immediacy and perceived truth of the visual image, as well as film and television's ability to propel viewers back into the past, place the genre of the historical film in a special category. War films, including antiwar films, have established the prevailing public image of war in the twentieth century. For American audiences, the dominant image of trench warfare in World War I has been provided by feature films such as All Quiet on the Western Front and Paths of Glory. The image of combat in the Second World War has been shaped by films like Sands of Iwo Jima and The Longest Day. And despite claims for the alleged impact of widespread television coverage of the Vietnam War, it is actually films such as Apocalypse Now and Platoon which have provided the most powerful images of what is seen as the reality of that much-disputed conflict. But to what degree does history, written with lightning as Woodrow Wilson allegedly said, represent the reality of the past? To what extent is visual history an oversimplification or even a distortion of the past? Exploring the relationship between moving images and the society and culture in which they were produced and received, World War II, Film, and History addresses the power these images have had in determining our perception and memories of war. Examining how the public memory of war in the twentieth century has often been created more by a manufactured past than a remembered one, a leading group of historians discusses films dating from the early 1930s through the early 1990s, created by filmmakers the world over, from the United States and Germany to Japan and the former Soviet Union. For example, Freda Freiberg explains how the inter-racial melodramatic Japanese feature film China Nights, in which a manly and protective Japanese naval officer falls in love with a beautiful young Chinese street waif, and molds her into a cultured submissive wife proved enormously popular with wartime Japanese and helped justify the invasion of China in the minds of many Japanese viewers Peter Paret assesses the historical accuracy of Kolberg as a depiction of an unsuccessful siege of that German city by a French Army in 1807 and explores how the film released by Hitler's regime in January 1945 explicitly called for civilian sacrifice and last ditch resistance Stephen Ambrose contrasts what we know about the historical reality of the Allied D Day landings in Normandy on June 6 1944 with the 1962 release of The Longest Day in which the major climactic moment in the film never happened at Normandy Alice Kessler Harris examines The Life and Times of Rosie the Riveter a 1982 film documentary about women defense workers on the American home front in World War II emphasizing the degree to which the documentary's engaging main characters and its message of the need for fair and equal treatment for women resonates with many contemporary viewers And Clement Alexander Price contrasts Men of Bronze William Miles's fine documentary about black American soldiers who fought in France in World War I with Liberators the controversial documentary by Miles and Nina Rosenblum which incorrectly claimed that African American troops liberated Holocaust survivors at Dachau in World War II In today's visually oriented world powerful images even images of images are circulated in an eternal cycle gaining increased acceptance through repetition History becomes an endless loop in which repeated images validate and reconfirm each other Based on archival materials many of which have become only recently available World War II Film and History offers an informative and a disturbing look at the complex relationship between national myths and filmic memory as well as the dangers of visual images being transformed into reality

Reframing Japanese Cinema Arthur Nolletti, David Desser, 1992 IRIS. , 1996 Film Art David Bordwell, Kristin Thompson, 1993 This introduction to film art explains the techniques specific to film as a medium discusses the principles by which entire films are constructed and explores how these techniques and formal principles have changed over the history of moviemaking Frame enlargements are used to illuminate concepts and there is information on the latest film technology such as the computer and special effects used in shooting Jurassic Park This edition includes a new chapter dealing with types of films and the concept of genre and there is also a new section on The New Hollywood and independent film making In addition there is a new appendix on selected Internet reference sites in film from the World Wide Web Iris Kenji Iwamoto, 1993 Take One , 1978 Great Events from History II.: 1937-1954 Frank Northen Magill, 1993 Recounts original articles treating 493 topics and events in twentieth century history spanning the cultural and artistic life of the modern world Includes landmarks in the fine arts art architecture dance fashion and design journalism literature motion pictures music television and radio and theater Ozu's Anti-cinema Yoshishige Yoshida, 2003 A luminous exploration of one filmmaker's work by another an artist's personal journey a manifesto The Films of Akira Kurosawa Donald Richie, 1996 In an epilogue provided for his incomparable study of Akira Kurosawa 1910 1998 Donald Richie reflects on Kurosawa's life work of thirty feature films and describes his last unfinished project a film set in the Edo period to be called

The Ocean Was Watching Kurosawa remains unchallenged as one of the century's greatest film directors. Through his long and distinguished career he managed like very few others in the teeth of a huge and relentless industry to elevate each of his films to a distinctive level of art. His Rashomon, one of the best remembered and most talked of films in any language, was a revelation when it appeared in 1950 and did much to bring Japanese cinema to the world's attention. Kurosawa's films display an extraordinary breadth and an astonishing strength from the philosophic and sexual complexity of Rashomon to the moral dedication of Ikiru, from the naked violence of Seven Samurai to the savage comedy of Yojimbo, from the terror-filled feudalism of Throne of Blood to the piercing wit of Sanjuro.      The Japan Foundation Newsletter, 1994      Asian Profile, 1995      Film Reader, 1985
