Voice For The Excluded Popular Participation In Development:

A Voice for the Excluded Matthias Stiefel, Marshall Wolfe, 1994 This comparative study of participation in development is hardheaded in its conclusion that beneficial development requires the redistribution of power to local communities The book pulls together the findings of field studies among both rural and urban communities in Latin American and Asian countries and in Tanzania to assess what has happened to popular participation since the beginning of the 1980s and to sketch out its future direction The focus is on the organized efforts of the excluded as well as of NGOs the state and international agencies It shows how all interact to encourage coopt or undermine participatory struggles and initiatives The book combines historical context and theoretical clarity with sociological examination of a wide variety of actual cases The World Bank, Asian Development Bank and Human Rights Sanae Fujita, 2013-01-01 Dr Fujita reminds us of the critically important role that human rights can play Opening up new perspectives this book is a major and original contribution to the literature From the foreword by Paul Hunt Sanae Fujita's book The World Bank Asian Development Bank and Human Rights is a significant scholarly contribution to important issues of global governance in our increasingly interconnected world The book is an excellent treatment of the emergence of participatory rights and accountability in the context of international finance and international organizations more generally Particularly valuable is the in depth treatment of transparency and accountability at the Asian Development Bank an important and often overlooked institution critical to international governance David Hunter American University Washington College of Law US The World Bank and the Asian Development Bank are two of the world's major institutions conducting development projects Both banks recognize the importance of transparency participation and accountability Responding to criticisms and calls for reform they have developed policies that are designed to protect these values for people affected by their projects This original and timely book examines these policies including those recently revised through the prism of human rights and makes suggestions for further improvement It also analyses the development of the Banks stance to human rights in general This unique book contains valuable and deeply insightful information drawn from extensive face to face interviews with relevant actors including key personnel from both banks consultants to the banks and members of civil society organisations It expands the scope of research discussion on human rights obligation of International financial institutions that will prove insightful for both academics and students Practitioners will gain a great deal from the detail given on the standards of transparency participation and accountability and their applicability to the day to day operations of development institutions Participatory Citizenship Ranjita Mohanty, Rajesh Tandon, 2006-03-29 Papers presented at the Conference on Citizenship and Governance Issues of Identity Inclusion and Voice held at Delhi in February 2003 Evaluating Communication for Development June Lennie, Jo Tacchi, 2013-02-11 Evaluating Communication for Development presents a comprehensive framework for evaluating communication for development C4D This framework combines the latest thinking from a number of fields in new ways It critiques dominant instrumental accountability based approaches to development and evaluation and offers an alternative holistic participatory mixed methods approach based on systems and complexity thinking and other key concepts It maintains a focus on power gender and other differences and social norms The authors have designed the framework as a way to focus on achieving sustainable social change and to continually improve and develop C4D initiatives The benefits and rigour of this approach are supported by examples and case studies from a number of action research and evaluation capacity development projects undertaken by the authors over the past fifteen years Building on current arguments within the fields of C4D and development the authors reinforce the case for effective communication being a central and vital component of participatory forms of development something that needs to be appreciated by decision makers They also consider ways of increasing the effectiveness of evaluation capacity development from grassroots to management level in the development context an issue of growing importance to improving the quality effectiveness and utilisation of monitoring and evaluation studies in this field The book includes a critical review of the key approaches methodologies and methods that are considered effective for planning evaluation assessing the outcomes of C4D and engaging in continuous learning This rigorous book is of immense theoretical and practical value to students scholars and professionals researching or working in development communication and media applied anthropology and evaluation and program planning

Sustainable Development in India: Emerging Scenarios and Concerns Prof. Litty Denis, Prof. Saurabh Sharma, 2019-09-10 Sustainable development across the globe is the only course to a peaceful future for the coming generations The current severe rise in temperatures in France and other European countries bear witness to the climate change and its impact that the future holds Health issues and life style related diseases are on the rise amidst increasing life expectancy Grave inequalities still engulf the globe in various forms Biodiversity degradation is also extensive Discussions and planned initiatives for sustainable development becomes liminal in this context This book offers for the readers discussions on a multitude of interrelated concerns with contributions on issues ranging from internal security to environment management and emerging scenario surrounding the domain of sustainable development
