New Threats and New Actors in International Security E. Krahnemann,2005-01-14 Non state threats and actors have become key topics in contemporary international security as since the end of the Cold War the notion that state is the primary unit of interest in international security has increasingly been challenged Statistics show that today many more people are killed by ethnic conflicts HIV AIDS or the proliferation of small arms than by international war Moreover non state actors such as non governmental organizations private military companies and international regimes are progressively complementing or even replacing states in the provision of security Suggesting that such developments can be understood as part of a shift from government to governance in international security this book examines both how private actors have become one of the main sources of insecurity in the contemporary world and how non state actors play a growing role in combating these threats Small Arms Survey 2002 Small Arms Survey,2002 The 2002 edition of the Small Arms Survey includes new and updated information and analysis on global small arms production stockpiles and legal and illicit transfers and a review of international regional and national measures to address the issue of small arms proliferation New issuescovered in the 2002 edition include i the humanitarian dimensions of small arms availability and proliferation ii a survey of small arms collection and destruction programmes and iii a detailed analysis of the outcome of the 2001 United Nations Conference on the Illicit Trade in Small Arms andLight Weapons in all its Aspects The Small Arms Survey is now recognised as the principle international source of impartial and reliable information on all aspects of small arms Its blend of information and analysis makes it an indispensable resource for policy makers officials andnon governmental organisations
