strain of war War writing has fewer traditional forms but exists at a similar extreme The eight chapters in this book written by leading and up and coming scholars in the field illuminate the creative innovations improvisations and implosions which happen when the demands of writing war and writing lives collide Central to all is the question of authenticity how can wars and lives be known and who can speak of them with authority This volume has a generous chronological and generic range beginning in the early 1800s and stretching to 21st century texts and covering letters diaries fiction fakeries poetry biography testimony songs objects and digital media The mix of authors is similarly varied Thomas Hardy W H Auden and Elizabeth Bowen rub shoulders with Yousif M Qasmiyeh a contemporary Palestinian poet Farah Baker a Gazan teenager and the writers behind the pen names Araki Yasusada and Jiri Kajan This book was originally published as a special issue of Textual Practice Thinking Poetry Peter Nicholls, Peter Boxall, 2016-03-16 This collection brings together some of the most prominent critics of contemporary poetry and some of the most significant poets working in the English language today to offer a critical assessment of the nature and function of poetic thought Working at once with questions of form literary theory and philosophy this volume gives an extraordinarily diverse original and mobile account of the kind of thinking that poetry can do The conviction that moves through the collection as a whole is that poetry is not an addition to thought nor a vehicle to express a given idea nor an ornamental language in which thinking might find itself couched Rather all the essays suggest that poetry itself thinks in ways that other forms of expression cannot thus making new intellectual political and cultural formulations possible This book was originally published as a special issue of Textual Practice The Poetics of Melancholy in Early Modern England Douglas Trevor, 2004-09-30 The Poetics of Melancholy in Early Modern England explores how attitudes toward and explanations of human emotions change in England during the late sixteenth and early seventeenth century Typically categorized as literary writers Edmund Spenser John Donne Robert Burton and John Milton were all active in the period s reappraisal of the single emotion that due to their efforts would become the passion most associated with the writing life melancholy By emphasising the shared concerns of the non literary and literary texts produced by these figures Douglas Trevor asserts that quintessentially scholarly practices such as glossing texts and appending sidenotes shape the methods by which these same writers come to analyse their own moods He also examines early modern medical texts dramaturgical representations of learned depressives such as Shakespeare s Hamlet and the opposition to materialistic accounts of the passions voiced by Neoplatonists such as Edmund Spenser Were Early Modern Lives Different? Andrew Hadfield, 2016-03-16 Should we assume that people who lived some time ago were quite similar to us or should we assume that they need to be thought of as alien beings with whom we have little in common This specially commissioned collection explores this important issue through an analysis of the lives and work of a number of significant early modern writers Shakespeare is analysed in a number of essays as authors ask whether we can learn anything about his life from reading the Sonnets and Hamlet Other essays explore the first substantial autobiography in English that of the musician and poet
