Aerial Photographs in Geologic Interpretation and Mapping Richard Godfrey Ray,1960 The use of aerial photographs to obtain qualitative and quantitative geologic information and instrument procedures employed in compiling geologic data from aerial photographs Geological Survey Professional Paper Geological Survey (U.S.),1960 U.S. Geological Survey Professional Paper ,1963 Geological Survey Professional Paper ,1963 Street-Level Desires, Discovering the City on Foot Frank van der Hoeven,2009-01-06 Pedestrian mobility and the regeneration of the European city centre Spatial Metro a project largely funded by the EU aims to make city visits more enjoyable for pedestrians by making cities easier to navigate easier to walk around and easier to understand and appreciate This is achieved in various ways including illuminating characteristic buildings providing metro style maps as well as appropriate information and signposting for pedestrians and the application of GPS technology Together with municipalities and universities five cities Norwich Bristol Rouen Koblenz and Biel Bienne in North West Europe have carried out pilot studies and exchanged experiences In this publication their findings are shared with the reader Image Texture Analysis Chih-Cheng Hung,Enmin Song,Yihua Lan,2019-06-05 This useful textbook reference presents an accessible primer on the fundamentals of image texture analysis as well as an introduction to the K views model for extracting and classifying image textures Divided into three parts the book opens with a review of existing models and algorithms for image texture analysis before delving into the details of the K views model The work then concludes with a discussion of popular deep learning methods for image texture analysis Topics and features provides self test exercises in every chapter describes the basics of image texture texture features and image texture classification and segmentation examines a selection of widely used methods for measuring and extracting texture features and various algorithms for texture classification explains the concepts of dimensionality reduction and sparse representation discusses view based approaches to classifying images introduces the template for the K views algorithm as well as a range of variants of this algorithm reviews several neural network models for deep machine learning and presents a specific focus on convolutional neural networks This introductory text on image texture analysis is ideally suitable for senior undergraduate and first year graduate students of computer science who will benefit from the numerous clarifying examples provided throughout the work Image Textures and Gibbs Random Fields Georgy L. Gimel'farb,2012-12-06 Image analysis is one of the most challenging areas in today s computer science and image technologies are used in a host of applications This book concentrates on image textures and presents novel techniques for their simulation retrieval and segmentation using specific Gibbs random fields with multiple pairwise interaction between signals as probabilistic image models These models and techniques were developed mainly during the previous five years in relation to April 1999 when these words were written While scanning these pages you may notice that in spite of long equations the mathematical background is extremely simple I have tried to avoid complex abstract constructions and give explicit physical to be specific image based explanations to all the mathematical notions involved Therefore it is hoped that the book can be easily read both by professionals and graduate students in computer science and electrical engineering who take an interest in image analysis and synthesis Perhaps mathematicians studying applications of random fields may find here some less traditional and thus controversial views and techniques
