That Further Hill:

Dragon in Ambush Jeremy Ingalls, 2013-05-16 Dragon in Ambush by Jeremy Ingalls is a critique and new translation of the first twenty poems of Mao Zedong's published poetry. This seminal work stands out from previous translations of Mao's poems in seeing them as an expression of his core political beliefs rather than for their poetic effect. Instead, Dr. Ingalls shows in consummate detail that Mao was careful and deliberate in employing imagery in his poetry to lay out procedures for political supremacy in which the central drive was his will to psychological domination. That is, domination of the minds of others is the unifying theme of Mao's verse sequence. The crux of Prof. Ingalls' work lies in her focus on the symbolism in the poems. The poems are in Mao's use of them as a means of communication meaningless on their surface. No image, however seemingly commonplace, is ever employed for merely lyrical or aesthetic description. Every image functions as a factor in an entirely political calculus. According to Dr. Ingalls, when Mao mentions streams or mountains, suns or moons, clouds or winds or icicles, horses, elephants, snakes, tigers, leopards, or bears, specifies kinds of trees or birds or fish, flies, brooms, mats, or bridges, these and all his other images have as their primary function neither happenstance descriptions nor whimsical metaphor. They all have politically symbolic functions in Mao's algebra of versified political discourse. Furthermore, in her analysis, Prof. Ingalls downplays the significance of Marxism-Leninism in the Thought of Mao Zedong. She shows that throughout his career, Mao regarded Marxism-Leninism as a political convenience, not as a doctrine permanently essential to his master plan. Just as Mao used the Nationalists of Chiang Kai-shek and Stalin's Soviet Union as means to further his own political ambitions, so did he manipulate Marxist-Leninist ideology to hoodwink and attract at home and abroad professional revolutionaries to help do his bidding. Mao's aims, expressed in their worldviews, are entirely Chinese traditions. In his poems, Mao's dialectics, his materialism, and his authoritarianism all take their points of reference from within the Chinese cultural order. Dragon in Ambush is a thoroughly unique and revolutionary approach to understanding the Mind of Mao Zedong.

Landscapes Beyond Land Arnar Árnason, Nicolas Ellison, Jo Vergunst, Andrew Whitehouse, 2012-09-01 Land is embedded in a multitude of material and cultural contexts through which the human experience of landscape emerges. Ethnographers with their participative methodologies, long-term co-residence, and concern with the quotidian aspects of the places where they work are well positioned to describe landscapes in their fullest of senses. The contributors explore how landscapes become known primarily through movement and journeying rather than stasis. Working across four continents, they explain how landscapes are constituted and recollected in the stories people tell of their journeys through them and how, in turn, these stories are embedded in landscaped forms. The Academy, 1898 Decisions and Orders of the National Labor Relations Board United States.
