a recently retired widow who has moved to the small village of Port Mabyn in Cornwall Neither frail nor retiring after a lifetime of traveling the world she s ready for an uneventful life with her dog and friends in this quiet town Unfortunately excitement seems to happen around her Her friend and neighbor artist Nick Gresham returns from a trip only to find several of his paintings slashed reportedly by rival local artist Geoffrey Clarke When Nick goes to have it out with him with Eleanor in tow they find Clarke s body in his studio fatally stabbed in the back Accused of the crime Nick ends up in jail while Detective Inspector Scumble and DS Megan Pencarrow Eleanor s niece investigate But Eleanor isn t leaving anything to chance she starts doing a little investigating of her own and soon learns that Nick is far from the only one with a compelling motive for murder Praise Carola Dunn s first Cornish Mystery Adept at showing character through witty dialogue Dunn educated entertained and in many instances set the economic political and social agenda for our nation and its multi ethnic citizens      The Lever of Riches Joel Mokyr,1992-04-09 In a world of supercomputers genetic engineering and fiber optics technological creativity is ever more the key to economic success But why are some nations more creative than others and why do some highly innovative societies such as ancient China or Britain in the industrial revolution pass into stagnation Beginning with a fascinating concise history of technological progress Mokyr sets the background for his analysis by tracing the major inventions and innovations that have transformed society since ancient Greece and Rome. What emerges from this survey is often surprising: the classical world was largely barren of new technology; the relatively backward society of medieval Europe bristled with inventions; and the period between the Reformation and the Industrial Revolution was one of slow and unspectacular progress in technology despite the tumultuous developments associated with the Voyages of Discovery and the Scientific Revolution. What were the causes of technological creativity? Mokyr distinguishes between the relationship of inventors and their physical environment which determined their willingness to challenge nature and the social environment which determined the openness to new ideas. He discusses a long list of such factors showing how they interact to help or hinder a nation's creativity and then illustrates them by a number of detailed comparative studies: examining the differences between Europe and China between classical antiquity and medieval Europe and between Britain and the rest of Europe during the industrial revolution. He examines such aspects as the role of the state: the Chinese gave up a millennium wide lead in shipping to the Europeans for example when an Emperor banned large ocean going vessels; the impact of science as well as religion, politics and even nutrition. He questions the importance of such commonly cited factors as the spill over benefits of war, the abundance of natural resources, life expectancy and labor costs. Today an ever greater number of industrial economies are competing in the global market locked in a struggle that revolves around technological ingenuity.

The Lever of Riches with its keen analysis derived from a sweeping survey of creativity throughout history offers telling insights into the question of how Western economies can maintain and developing nations can unlock their creative potential.
