Tokyo Labyrinth City:

Tokyo Noriyuki Tajima, Catherine Powell, 1997-01-01     Tokyo 〇〇〇〇, Catherine Powell, 1997     Tokyo 〇〇〇〇, Catherine Powell, 1997     Humanising the City? Anthony Paul Cohen, Katsuyoshi Fukui, 1993 Japanese African and Western perspectives are included in 12 essays from the symposium The Age of the City Human Life in the Twenty First Century in Osaka Japan March 1990 They explore how people are carving out human sized spheres in massive impersonal cities both by modifying traditional structures and by appropriating new structures to their own needs Among the topics are world cities of permanent transience festivals social and communicative networks kinship and some crystal ball gazing Distributed by Columbia U Press Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR     Tokyo Guide Time Out, Penguin, 1999 The Tokyo Guide is packed with vital information for both first time tourists and experienced business travelers Written by journalists and writers living in the Japanese capital this guide takes the lid off one of the most exciting and mysterious cities in the world with a guide to Japanese food what to eat and how to order it walking tours of Tokyo's most vibrant districts a thorough shopping guide language survival tips and a mini guide to Yokohama Japan's second city thirty minutes away

Ethnic Tokyo Hidenobu Jinnai, 1987     The Urban Section Robert Mantho, 2014-09-25 The design of streets and the connections between streets of different character is the most important task for architects and urbanists working in an urban context Considered at two distinct spatial scales that of the individual street the Street Section and the complex of city streets the City Transect Urban Section identifies a range of generic street types and their success or otherwise in responding to climatic cultural traditional morphological social and economic well being Using comparative studies a profile of best practice in street and city design is identified showing methodologies in both the analysis of and design for successful streets and public places place making In uniquely dealing with both the historic and contemporary description and analysis of urban streets around the world the work is of both academic and professional interest to architects urban planners and designers highway engineers landscape and urban design advisers in both the public and private sectors students amenity and civic societies city authorities and government agencies     The Architects' Journal, 1997     Future Cities Nick Dunn, Paul Cureton, 2020-12-10 What might our cities look like in ten twenty or fifty years How may future cities face global challenges Imagining the city of the future has long been an inspiration for many architects artists and designers This book examines how cities of the future have been visualised what these projects sought to communicate and what the implications may be for us now It provides a visual history of the future and explores the relationships between different visualisation techniques and ideologies for cities Thinking about what futures are who they are for why they are desirable and how and when they are to be brought into being is central to this book Through visualisation we are able to experiment in ways that would be impractical and potentially hazardous in the real world and this book therefore aims to contribute toward a better understanding of the power and agency of visualisations for future cities In this lavishly illustrated text the authors apply several critical lenses to consider the subject in different ways technological futures social futures and global futures providing a comprehensive survey and analysis of visions for future cities and engaging creatively with how we perceive tomorrow's world and future studies more widely World Architecture, 1997 Books on Japan in Western Languages Recently Acquired by the National Diet Library Kokuritsu Kokkai Toshokan (Japan), 1998 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 1999 Asian Cinema, 1998 Architecture Today, 1997 Environment and the Arts Arnold Berleant, 2002 The environment raises basic questions about many of the fundamental concepts and doctrines in aesthetics and the arts Including new work by the leading international contributors to environmental aesthetics this is the first book to deal with the relations between the arts and environment directed towards a non philosophical audience of practitioners and critics as well as theorists Introducing many of the basic ideas and issues in the theory of the arts particularly as they bear on environment this book addresses the special concerns of an aesthetics of environment and explores the implications of environmental aesthetics for understanding both aesthetic theory and the aesthetic of individual arts Key topics covered include the mutual relevance of art and environment appreciation in art and nature appraising nature architecture and the urban environment the relationships between environmental ethics and aesthetics the environmental implications of some specific arts environment and popular culture and the significance of environment technologies for aesthetics and the arts Contributors are drawn from a range of nationalities and cultures that have signal importance for environmental aesthetics including Great Britain the United States Finland and Japan Environment and the Arts provides an introduction to some of the most intriguing and compelling questions about understanding and appreciating the arts and environment setting a mark for the field and opening the topics to a wider audience Body City Indira Chandrasekhar, Peter C. Seel, 2003 Contemporary India may be said to be in the throes of a transitionality that defines itself in terms of a challenge to earlier paradigms of nationhood and developmentalism Rapid political economic social and cultural transformations that have taken place over the last two decades impelled by a world order that has seen the collapse of socialism and attendant upon it a reversal of the decolonization process and a globalizing neo imperialism have set in motion new ways of looking at the past and positioning the present In the sphere of culture and the arts these new reflections manifest themselves as a series of questions about how to rediscover domestic indigenous spaces without disengaging from the world system or rejecting internationalism about the assimilative inclusiveness yet alienating exclusion that accompanies changing contours of identity formation about the tension between the private and the public in the artist's dual role as practitioner and citizen about creative strategies reinventions that simultaneously negotiate older cognitive frames and seek to transform these into fresh certitudes The questions surface in various modes some times reflectively sometimes oppositionally sometimes in deflected stances but always with a sense of responsibility and as sited interrogations conscious of where they come from These are the questions that underline the conceptual grid of this book The book is divided into three main sections exposition body city frames body city figures that lead into each other but not sequentially relying instead on the inter connectivity of their textual and visual thematic concerns The opening section is a set of four essays that explore the specific themes of the body and the city as these translate into modes of representation performativity and placement Jyotindra Jain in Morphing Identities Reconfiguring the Divine and the Political discusses the role played by an eclectic range of popular imagery in constructing cultural social and national identities In subTerrain artists dig the contemporary Geeta Kapur extends the pun in her title to a reasoned out proposition for locating the subversion of art practice in the interstices of urban spaces to be excavated through the force of interpretation Ravi Vasudevan in Selves Made Strange Violent and Performative Bodies in the Cities of Indian Cinema 1974 2003 explores the body space articulations of screen personas and city environments in the narrative space of today s cinema In Actors Prepare Anuradha Kapur s focus is the actor s body the body in performance She discusses performance styles in terms of how actors move between the abstract and the tangible and enter into a contract with their audiences by using different modes and by locating the body in different registers The images reproduced in the book constitute a parallel visual narrative that reinforces the central themes Interspersed with the text in the first two sections and coming together in the third section these have a representational value of their own in the scheme of the book The second section frames sets up a vantage point from which to view contemporary cultural practice and provides points of theoretical departure These include the notion of civil society in the third world Sudipta Kaviraj unfolding forms of collaboration and resistance in the new Indian metropolis Partha Chatterjee the shift away from secular inclusive nationalisms to anti modern patriarchal particularisms that parade as nationalism Pradip Kumar Datta Kumkum Sangari the re imaging of the nation s geo body through popular cartographic endeavours and a look at identity formation through an exploration of literary texts Susie Tharu Amitav Ghosh Indira Chandrasekhar is Managing Editor of Tulika Books New Delhi Peter C Seel is Deputy Director of the House of World Cultures Berlin The editors of the volume make it clear that the project is a deliberate attempt at distancing the act of enquiry itself from any easy misleading glibness It firmly and deliberately locates the critiques it produces within select urban centres that happen to reflect the myriad relations between globalization local traditions and newly designed living spaces in a particular way consciously choosing the interface where the social and political conflicts that are central concerns in the artists works are at their most virulent The Arts News Magazine of India AS mediatijdschrift ,2002 Makoto Sei Watanabe Makoto Sei Watanabe,1998 The works of Makoto Sei Watanabe combine the functionality of aesthetic experience and the calculated organization of structures with the evocation of deep ancestral memories Realism in Romantic Japan Miriam Beard,1930 Tokyo ,2005 Full color and fact packed yet portable and affordable only 15 95 Bonus Pullout wallet sized Mini Restaurant Guides and City Map
