Tomorrows Child Imagination Creativity:

Tomorrow's Child Rubem A. Alves, 2011-05-01 All theories of social change says Alves rest squarely on the economic and structural forces operative in society at any given moment in history Thus many of the proposals offered by today's futurologists fall considerably short of social revolution They are in effect extrapolations from the functional matrix of our society Like the dinosaurs who disappeared not because they were too weak but because they were too strong our civilization is motivated less by the desire for internal growth and existential relevance than it is by blind outward expansion We are determined by a triangle of interlocking systems each deriving and giving life to the others the power of the sword the power of money and the power of science In this context to be a realist is to accept the rules of the game laid down by the power lords of our rational society whose goals are war production and consumption But the utopian mentality argues Alves wants to create a qualitatively new order in which economy must abandon the goal of infinite growth The only way out then is to abort realism from the body politic and impregnate it with the power of the imagination This book clears away the debris of realism and lays the groundwork for a constructive theory of creative imagination moving us toward new forms of social organization where the community of faith can be found

Essays in Public Theology Dirkie Smit, 2007-04-01 What is the role of the church in society What role did the church play in South Africa during apartheid in the struggle against apartheid and during the period of transformation The essays collected and published in this volume deal with questions such as these They are all occasional pieces They were written over two decades and reflect the times in which they originated always intended for specific audiences always addressing issues of the particular moment

Welcoming Africa's children - Theological and ministry perspectives Jan Grobbelaar, Gert Breed, Stephan de Beer, Nico Koopman, Elijah Mahlangu, Malan Nel, Dirkie Smit, Pieter Verster, 2016-12-31

The purpose of this book is to combine perspectives of scholars from Africa on Child Theology from a variety of theological sub disciplines to provide some theological and ministerial perspectives on this topic The book disseminates original research and new developments in this study field especially as relevant to the African context In the process it addresses also the global need to hear voices from Africa in this academic field It aims to convey the importance of considering Africa's children in theologising The different chapters represent diverse methodologies but the central and common focus is to approach the subject from the viewpoint of Africa's children The individual authors varied theological sub disciplinary dispositions contribute to the unique and distinct character of the book Almost all chapters are theoretical orientated with less empirical but more qualitative research although some of the chapters refer to empirical research that the authors have performed in the past Most of the academic literature in the field of Child Theologies is from American or British European origin The African context is fairly absent in this discourse although it is the youngest continent and presents unique and relevant challenges This book was written by theological scholars from Africa focussing on Africa's children It addresses not only theoretical challenges in this field but also provides theological perspectives for ministry with children and for important social change Written from a variety of theological sub disciplines the book is aimed at scholars across theological sub disciplines especially those theological scholars interested in the intersections between theology childhood studies and African cultural or social themes It addresses themes and provides insights that are also relevant for specialist leaders and professionals in this field No part of the book was plagiarised from another publication or published elsewhere

An Unpromising Hope Thomas R. Gaulke, 2021-09-21 Written in a theopoetic key this book challenges Christian reliance on the motif of promise especially where promise is regarded as a prerequisite for the experience of hope It pursues instead an unpromising hope available to the agnostic or belief fluid members and leaders of faith communities The book rejects any theological judgement about doubt and hopelessness being sinful It also rejects any hope which is grounded in a sense of Christian supremacy Chapter 1 focuses on Ernst Bloch s antifascist concept of utopian surplus putting Bloch in conversation with queer theorist Jos Esteban Mu oz and womanist theologian M Shawn Copeland Chapter 2 explores the saudadic and theopoetic hope of Rubem Alves Chapter 3 turns to the womanist theologies of Delores Williams Emilie Townes and A Elaine Brown Crawford Finally chapter 4 engages the post colonial eschatology of V tor Westhelle framing hope as nearby in space rather than nearby in time Each chapter offers an unpromising hope that may be tapped into by those who wish to affirm belief fluidity in their own communities and by those who wish to speak of hope honestly whether or not at any given moment they believe in God or in the promises of a god

Essays on the Real Church Dirk J. Smit, 2024-08-15 The spirit of the Reformation is often expressed in the well known slogan that Reformed churches are always being reformed according to God s Word ecclesia reformata semper reformanda secundum verbum Dei Over the last century the spirit of this slogan motivated someone like Dietrich Bonhoeffer to argue that the visible form and life of the church should reflect the truth and message of the church Already in his doctoral dissertation called Sanctorum Communio the communion of the saints the young Bonhoeffer combined theological claims and traditions with social theory and analysis in this spirit in an innovative way to study the nature and integrity and witness of the church At the time this was a radical claim with major consequences and challenges for Protestant churches Their life which meant their order structure actions statements convictions public presence and role was to be measured by their gospel which meant their message proclamation convictions claims They could no longer proclaim one truth yet live a different life It was this spirit which led to the well known Theological Declaration of Barmen in 1934 and to the formation of the Confessing Church in Nazi Germany Many called this a moment of truth a status confessionis It was this same spirit which later inspired the struggle in South Africa for the integrity and faithfulness of the church and for the credibility of its message proclamation and witness The contributions in this volume 52 papers essays sermons studies were all produced in this spirit Most of them have not been published before They were all occasional pieces written over several decades in different contexts and for different purposes and audiences yet they all breathe this self critical spirit of the Reformation considering whether the real church the concrete every day actual living church that people know and experience and perhaps belong to truly strives to embody the gospel itself the message which it claims and proclaims They all inquire under different circumstances and in diverse ways about different social forms of the real church from worship to congregation from denomination to ecumenical church from individual believers to movements and organisations whether and how they embody the truth of the church or not Together these contributions tell a story the story of this spirit in South African circles over several decades but also in the ecumenical church in our globalizing world They offer one small glimpse into different concrete moments in the story of this spirit in the life of this tradition and community of faith Hopefully some of these accounts may resonate with others who also shared the same spirit and still share it today in new and ongoing ways

A Mystic's Passion Rudolf K. Markwald, 1990 This exciting interpretation of a homiletic work of art by Johannes von Staupitz Luther's mentor leads the reader to an insight into his mystic spirituality Rudolf Markwald reveals Staupitz deep concern for the integrity of the Church and his personal apprehensions at the dawn of the Reformation Disclosing the synthesis between Staupitz glowing vision of the Cross and his challenge for Church renewal by the new birth of its people A Mystic's Passion gives a fresh perspective of the fervor of these messages and his quest for defusing tensions America in Theological Perspective College Theology Society, 1976 A Crossroad book All essays were with two exceptions delivered at the 1975 convention of the College Theology Society at Boston College Includes bibliographical references

Process Philosophy and Social Thought John B. Cobb, W. W. Vidick Schroeder, 1981 This volume constitutes the first collection of essays exploring the implications of process philosophy for social thought Process philosophy is a product of the twentieth century but its Platonic roots relate it to one of the prime initiators of Western philosophical thinking Alfred North Whitehead originated the style of thinking that subsequently has been termed process philosophy Church and Society, 1971

Justice in Latin American Theology of Liberation Ismael García, 1987 Divine Revolution Dean Brackley, 1996 A compelling exploration of one of the central issues if not the central issue facing theology in our time the relation between transcendent salvation and temporal liberation What does the salvation that the church proclaims mean for the poor of the world In Divine Revolution Dean Brackley presents in a comprehensive yet manageable way what Catholic theology has to say about this complex and urgent topic He addresses the historical as well as the systematic dimensions of the question providing insights that point toward an understanding of the issues that challenge conservative and liberal interpretations alike In a work of great daring and clarity Brackley surveys the confusion surrounding the social historical dimension of salvation in Catholic thought He shows the irony of the fact that after 2 000 years what salvation means for the poor in relationship to their concrete plight remains a quaestio disputata for official Magisterial teaching Going deeply into the relationship of salvation and liberation Bracken explores the thought of Maritain Rahner and Gutierrez to demonstrate how the synbolon of the Reign of God that Jesus announces transcends the tired theological distinctions of all sides in the debate Drawing from developments in feminist and Protestant theology as well as contemporary social theory Divine Revolution offers a fresh understanding of what it means to participate in God s revolutionary reign Tyndale Bulletin ,1972
