Tono Bungay by H G Wells is a semi autobiographical novel that explores the social hierarchy and personal experiences of the protagonist George Ponderevo in Edwardian England The narrative begins with George s childhood at Bladesover House a grand estate that epitomizes the rigid class structure of the time Raised by his mother who is the housekeeper George is exposed to the intricacies of social status and the expectations that come with it His early life is marked by a sense of displacement and curiosity about the world beyond the estate s confines As George grows he becomes increasingly aware of the limitations imposed by the class system and begins to question the societal norms that dictate his life The novel delves into George s relationship with his uncle Edward Ponderevo a charismatic and ambitious man who rises to prominence through the creation of Tono Bungay a quack medicine This venture propels George into a world of financial speculation and moral ambiguity offering him a broader perspective on the social and economic forces shaping England Throughout the novel Wells critiques the superficiality and instability of the social order highlighting the tension between tradition and modernity George s journey is one of self discovery and disillusionment as he navigates the complexities of love transformation and identity in a rapidly changing world Tono Bungay is both a personal narrative and a broader commentary on the societal changes of the early 20th century capturing the essence of an era on the brink of change Tono-Bungay \(Annotated\) H. Tono Bungay is a realist semi autobiographical novel It is narrated by George Ponderevo a science student who is drafted in to help with the promotion of Tono Bungay a harmful stimulant disguised as a miraculous cure all the creation of his uncle Edward The quack remedy Tono Bungay seems to have been based upon the patent medicines Carter s Little Liver Pills and Dr Williams Pink Pills for Pale People As the tonic prospers George experiences a swift rise in social status elevating him to riches and opportunities that he had never imagined nor indeed desired The novel displays Edward s social climbing satirically and also George s discomfort at rising in social class The hero s personal life is narrated with unusual frankness for an Edwardian novel The empire eventually overextends itself and then collapses George tries unsuccessfully to save his uncle and eventually ends up designing battleships for the highest bidder Tono-Bungay - Scholar's Choice Edition Herbert George

Most people in this world seem to live in character they have a beginning a middle and an end and the three are congruous one with another and true to the rules of their type You can speak of them as being of this sort of people or that They are as theatrical people say no more and no less than character actors They have a class they have a place they know what is becoming in them and what is due to them and their proper size of tombstone tells at last how properly they have played the part But there is also another kind of life that is not so much living as a miscellaneous tasting of life One gets hit by some unusual transverse force one is jerked out of one's stratum and lives crosswise for the rest of the time and as it were in a succession of samples That has been my lot and that is what has set me at last writing something in the nature of a novel I have got an unusual series of impressions that I want very urgently to tell I have seen life at very different levels and at all these levels I have seen it with a sort of intimacy and in good faith I have been a native in many social countries I have been the unwelcome guest of a working baker my cousin who has since died in the Chatham infirmary I have eaten illegal snacks the unjustifiable gifts of footmen in pantries and been despised for my want of style and subsequently married and divorced by the daughter of a gasworks clerk and to go to my other extreme I was once oh glittering days an item in the house party of a countess She was I admit a countess with a financial aspect but still you know a countess I've seen these people at various angles At the dinner table I've met not simply the titled but the great On one occasion it is my brightest memory I upset my champagne over the trousers of the greatest statesman in the empire Heaven forbid I should be so invidious as to name him in the warmth of our mutual admiration Tono-Bungay H G

Wells,2019-07-26 Tono Bungay is a realist semiautobiographical novel written by H G Wells and published in 1909 It has been called arguably his most artistic book It was originally serialized in The English Review beginning in the magazine's first issue in December 1908 Tono-Bungay (1909) Wells,2018-10-08

Tono Bungay is a realist semiautobiographical novel written by H G Wells and published in 1909 It has been called arguably his most artistic book Plot Tono Bungay is narrated by George Ponderevo who is persuaded to help develop the business of selling Tono Bungay a patent medicine created by his ambitious uncle Edward George devotes seven years to organising the production and manufacture of a product which he believes to be a damned swindle 3 He then quits day to day involvement with the enterprise in favour of aeronautics But he remains associated with his uncle Edward who becomes a financier of the first order and is on the verge of achieving social as well as economic dominance when his business empire collapses George tries to rescue his uncle's failing finances by stealing quantities of a radioactive compound called quap from an island off the coast of West Africa but the expedition is unsuccessful His nephew engineers his uncle's escape from England in an experimental aircraft he has built but the ruined entrepreneur turned financier catches pneumonia on the flight and dies in a French village near Bordeaux despite George's efforts to save him The novel ends with George finding a new occupation designing destroyers for the highest bidder Herbert George Wells 21 September 1866 13 August 1946 known as H G Wells was a prolific English writer in many genres including the novel history politics social commentary and textbooks and rules for war games Wells is now best remembered for his science fiction novels and is called a father of science fiction along with Jules Verne and Hugo Gernsback His most notable science fiction works include The Time Machine 1895 The Island of Doctor Moreau 1896 The Invisible Man 1897 and The War of the Worlds 1898 He was nominated for the Nobel Prize in Literature four times Wells's earliest specialised training was in biology and his thinking on ethical matters took place in a specifically and fundamentally Darwinian context He was also from an early date an outspoken socialist often but not always as at the beginning of the First World War sympathising with pacifist views His later works became increasingly political and didactic and he wrote little science fiction while he sometimes indicated on official documents that his profession was that of journalist Novels like Kipps and The History of Mr Polly which describe lower middle class life led to the suggestion when they were published that he was a worthy successor to Charles Dickens but Wells described a range of social strata and even attempted in Tono Bungay 1909 a diagnosis of English society as a whole A diabetic in 1934 Wells co-founded the charity The Diabetic Association known today as Diabetes UK Early life Herbert George Wells was born at Atlas House 46 High Street Bromley in Kent on 21 September 1866 Called Bertie in the family he was the fourth and last child of Joseph Wells a former domestic gardener and at the time a shopkeeper and professional cricketer and his wife Sarah Neal a former domestic servant An inheritance had allowed the family to acquire a shop in which they sold china and sporting goods although it failed to prosper the stock was old and worn out and the location was poor Joseph Wells managed to earn a meagre income but little of it came from the shop and he received an unsteady amount of money from playing professional cricket for the Kent county team Payment for skilled bowlers and batsmen came from voluntary donations afterwards or from small payments from the clubs where matches were played

Tono-Bungay H. G. Wells, 2017-09-16 Excerpt from Tono Bungay A Novel And once though it is the most incidental thing in my life I murdered a man Yes I've seen a curious variety of people and ways of living altogether Odd people they all are great and small very much alike at bottom and curiously different on their surfaces I wish I had ranged just a little further both up and down seeing I have ranged so far Royalty must be worth knowing and very great fun But my contacts with princes have been limited to quite public occasions nor at the other end of the scale have I had what I should call an inside acquaintance with that dusty but attractive class of people who go about on the high roads drunk but en famille so redeeming the minor lapse in the summer time with a perambulator lavender to sell sun brown children a smell and ambiguous bundles that fire the imagination Navvies farm labourers sailormen and stokers all such as sit in 1834 beer houses are beyond me also and I suppose must remain so now for ever My intercourse with the ducal rank too has been negligible I once went shooting with a duke and in an outburst of what was no doubt snobbishness did my best to get him in the legs But that failed About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
