Utterance Structure Developing Grammars:

Utterance Structure Wolfgang Klein, Clive Perdue, 1992-08-13 This volume presents the results of part of the ESF project Second language acquisition by adult immigrants The present study deals specifically with structure of utterances in learner varieties The authors have attempted to find general principles which determine the form of utterances from the very beginning to relatively advanced stages Chapter 1 and 2 provide the framework for the study and here the guiding hypotheses are sketched on the basis of a pilot analysis The empirical part of the study is contained in Chapters 3-6 in which data are given for the acquisition of respectively English by Punjabi and Italian learners German Italian and Turkish learners Dutch Turkish and Moroccan learners and French Moroccan and Spanish learners thus allowing for crosslinguistic comparisons in various ways For each data set the learner's linguistic repertoire is established and then the utterance patterns recurrent in his/her production and the constraints these patterns are subject to In Chapter 7 the general and theoretical implications are discussed

Utterance Structure Wolfgang Klein, 1992 Acquisition of Second Language Syntax Susan Braidi, 2020-11-25 This book deals with the questions asked about the L2 acquisition process within different research paradigms examines the results found in each approach and evaluates the contributions of each to our understanding of L2 acquisition of syntax and to possible implications for L2 instruction Portraits of the L2 User Vivian Cook, 2002-08-06 Portraits of the L2 User treats second language users in their own right rather than as failed native speakers It describes a range of psychological and linguistic approaches to diverse topics about L2 users It thus provides an innovative overview of current second language acquisition theories results and methods seen from a common perspective

Child Second Language Acquisition Sonia Rocca, 2007 As one of the first books in child second language acquisition SLA this book focuses on the core area of tense aspect morphology reporting on three L1 Italian children learning L2 English vs three L1 English children learning L2 Italian An innovative longitudinal bidirectional research design where two languages represent both source and target show effects of language transfer in learners that because of their age still have potential to become native speakers of the target An unusual feature of this book is that relevant studies of acquisition of L2 Italian some heretofore only in Italian are reviewed incorporated into the study and made available to a more general audience Though the main focus is on child SLA crucial comparisons to both first language acquisition vs adult SLA are presented This approach will thus be of interest more generally to readers in first and second language acquisition and child development native levels of proficiency The learners in the studies reported in the volume represent different L1 backgrounds and age groups The chapters shed light on current issues in research on second language acquisition from different theoretical perspectives and contribute to a better understanding of L2 French and SLA in general The volume should be of interest for students teachers and researchers of L2 French and SLA Originally published in Language Interaction and Acquisition 3 1 2012

Developing Grammars Wolfgang Klein, N. Dittmar, 1979-09 This study deals with variation in grammar both from a theoretical and an empirical point of view In Part I Chaps 1 4 an attempt is made to characterize this phenomenon within the broader context of what might be called the fluctuating character of natural language and to develop suitable and precise descriptive techniques that account for it The method which is proposed here is called variety grammar roughly speaking this is a formal grammar with probabilistic weighting for an ordered set of varieties such as dialects sociolects registers or developmental stages In Part II Chaps 5 8 this technique is applied to an important area of grammatical variation to the process of second language acquisition in social context based on a large investigation of the language behavior of foreign migrant workers acquiring German through everyday contacts We have tried to characterize their developing grammars and to relate this complex developmental process to social and individual factors that determine it

The Structure and Status of Pidgins and Creoles Arthur Kean Spears, Donald Winford, 1997 Destined to become a landmark work this book is devoted principally to a reassessment of the content categories boundaries and basic assumptions of pidgin and creole studies It includes revised and elaborated papers from meetings of the Society for Pidgin and Creole Linguistics in addition to commissioned papers from leading scholars in the field As a group the papers undertake this reassessment through a reevaluation of pidgin creole terminology and contact language typology Section One a questioning of process and evolution in pidginization creolization and other language contact phenomena Section Two a reinterpretation of the sources and genesis of grammatical aspects of Saramaccan and Atlantic creoles in general Section

Three a reconsideration of the status of languages defying received definitions of pidgins and creoles Section Four and analyses of aspects of grammar that shed light on the issue of what a possible creole grammar is Section Five Journal of Portuguese Linguistics, 2004

Time in Language Wolfgang Klein, 2013-09-13 This book looks at the various ways in which time is reflected in natural language All natural languages have developed a rich repertoire of devices to express time but linguists have tended to concentrate on tense and aspect rather than discourse principles Klein considers the four main ways in which language expresses time the verbal categories of tense and aspect inherent lexical features of the verb and various types of temporal adverbs Klein looks at the interaction of these four devices and suggests new or partly new treatments of these devices to express temporality

Phonology and Morphology of Creole Languages Ingo Plag, 2003 Until very recently phonology and morphology have been neglected areas in the study of creole languages This collection of articles presents intriguing data and new analyses from a wide range of creoles that call into question traditional claims about the nature of the phonological and morphological systems of these languages and give crucial insights into one of the major questions of creole studies i e the question of how these languages and their grammars come about The volume is organized into 5 sections each focusing on particular aspects of the respective subsystems Segments and syllables Stress tone and intonation Morphophonology Derivational morphology Inflection

The Role of Formal Features in Second Language Acquisition Juana M. Liceras, Helmut Zobl, Helen Goodluck, 2008 This edited volume dealing with formal features in Second Language Acquisition is defined within current generative grammatical theory such as the Principles and Parameters Theory and the Minimalist Program Formal features are essential to any account of language acquisition because they are basic components of lexical and functional categories This is a subject of much current research as evidenced by the number of published articles in journals and in conference proceedings This is what the editors say While L2 acquisition is the focus of our volume the papers address the role of features in the current versions of generative grammar and explore the role of features for learnability theory as it relates to native and non native acquisition To our knowledge the volume represents the first scholarly contribution specifically devoted to features in language acquisition There are many generativists in SLA including our two series editors Susan Gass and Jacquelyn Schachter When asked if the formalist bias will be a big detraction Jacquelyn said The formal features book will definitely be formalist in tone

Language, Literature, and the Negotiation of Identity Barbara A. Fennell, 1997 This study examines the way in which the identity of foreign workers and foreign writers in Germany is negotiated on the basis of language use and literary activity The book presents an in depth look at the history of immigration to Germany since the turn of the century and a description of the social situation of foreigners living there at the dawn of the twenty first century It emphasizes the variable nature of the German used by foreign workers in the Federal Republic and documents changes that have occurred in the field of Gastarbeiterlinguistik in particular the shift of focus away from universal features to interpersonal aspects of foreigner native communication Foreign worker German is neither pidgin nor creole but rather a range of lects some of which are fossilized at a very low level others of which progress toward the standard dialect The work concludes with a selective history of foreign worker literature which emphasizes the parallels between linguistic and literary development in the immigrant community The Acquisition of Referential Form Use in L2 Oral Narrative Discourse by Adult English-speaking Learners of Japanese Tomoharu Yanagimachi,1997 Proceedings of the North East Linguistic Society 37 Emily Elfner,Martin Walkow,2007 NELS 37 the thirty seventh annual meeting of the North East Linguistic Society was hosted by the University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign on October 13 15 2006 These two volumes of conference proceedings edited by Emily Elfner and Martin Walkow and published by the Graduate Linguistic Student Association of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst contain the forty seven presented papers that were submitted for publication Volume 1 this volume contains papers from the special sessions on the Phonology and Morphology of Pidgins and Creoles and Syntactic Theory and Psycholinguistics as well eighteen papers from the main session Tense and Aspect in Advanced Swedish Learners' Written English Andreas Eriksson,2008 Literaturverz S 233 249 Proceedings of NELS. North Eastern Linguistic Society.
