When They Blew the Levee David Todd Lawrence,Elaine J. Lawless,2018-05-30 Winner of the 2019 Chicago Folklore Prize In 2011 the Midwest suffered devastating floods Due to the flooding the US Army Corps of Engineers activated the Birds Point New Madrid Floodway one of the flood prevention mechanisms of the Mississippi Rivers and Tributaries Project This levee breach was intended to divert water in order to save the town of Cairo Illinois but in the process it completely destroyed the small African American town of Pinhook Missouri In When They Blew the Levee Race Politics and Community in Pinhook Missouri authors David Todd Lawrence and Elaine J Lawless examine two conflicting narratives about the flood one promoted by the Corps of Engineers that boasts the success of the levee breach and the flood diversion and the other gleaned from displaced Pinhook residents who in oral narratives tell a different story of neglect and indifference on the part of government officials Receiving inadequate warning and no evacuation assistance during the breach residents lost everything Still after more than six years displaced Pinhook residents have yet to receive restitution and funding for relocation and reconstruction of their town The authors research traces a long history of discrimination and neglect of the rights of the Pinhook community beginning with their migration from the Deep South to southeast Missouri through purchasing and farming the land and up to the Birds Point levee breach nearly eighty years later The residents stories relate what it has been like to be dispersed in other small towns living with relatives and friends while trying to negotiate the bureaucracy surrounding Federal Emergency Management Agency and State Emergency Management Agency assistance programs Ultimately the stories of displaced citizens of Pinhook reveal a strong African American community whose bonds were developed over time and through shared traditions a community persisting despite extremely difficult circumstances History of Minneapolis Marion Daniel Shutter,1923 Life and Heroic Deeds of Admiral Dewey Including the Battles in the Philippines Louis Stanley Young,1899 The Flickinger Family History ,1927 Loss, Hurt and Hope Lorelei Atalie Vargas,Sandra L. Bloom,2007 What happens when a child experiences bereavement or trauma or both When left untreated childhood trauma crosses generational boundaries developing risk factors that far outpace the threat of any other childhood disease and yet most children who have lived through a significant traumatic experience usually do not get the care they need to begin their healing process Children who have experienced trauma are often left grappling with devastating loss loss of self esteem security innocence and trust that is more challenging to diagnose and treat than the more concrete loss of family a pet or a home Loss Hurt and Hope The Complex Issues of Bereavement and Trauma in Children gathers the collective wisdom of professionals who have spent years on the front lines working with children victimized by trauma Each chapter illuminates how loss can shape a child TM s development and provides professionals with the tools necessary to help these children move from despair to hope and renewal Experts in the field of child trauma explore the vulnerability of these children effective methods of caring for them in a variety of treatment settings and examine the impact of loss on organizations charged with caring for those who have experienced trauma Loss Hurt and Hope offers a multifaceted lens through which loss can be examined and appreciated laying the groundwork for significant progress toward improving the understanding of the power of loss in our society Understanding Mass Violence Shulamith Lala Ashenberg Straussner,Norma Kolko Phillips,2004 Understanding Mass Violence prepares social workers to intervene with people affected by human caused violence such as school shootings or terrorist acts The difficult challenges facing social work practitioners are discussed and suggestions for self care are provided Mass violence is also examined within the broader context of social policy and social justice The book is organized into 5 sections and includes 13 chapters providing the content for a course on social work and mass violence or trauma Martyrs in the Making Danna Piroyansky,2008-04 This book explores the late medieval English cults which evolved around political martyrs men who had been violently killed in political circumstances and were later venerated though never canonized By examining these cults using various types of sources the richness of political culture in the period is revealed and insights offered into the ways in which belief worship social and civic identities and political language and practice were continuously constructed and re constructed in fourteenth and fifteenth century English society A Comprehensive Survey of Social Behaviors in the O.J. Simpson Case, from A to Z Lena E. Hall,1999 A comprehensive alphabetically arranged documentation of social behaviours exemplified in the O J Simpson case These include both the theory and application of phenomena such as aggression belief perseverance collectivism discrimination empathy evaluation apprehension and fundamental attribution error Cast in psychological framework it emphasizes the clear but inadvertent interplay of a myriad of social behaviours theorized and researched by social psychologists showing how individuals interact with and are influenced by one another but these influences and interactions are mandated by a number of verbiage These include the different perceptions of mainstream Americans and African Americans to the events in the case The book ends with an exploration of the interaction of gender race and religion and defines the boundaries that have resulted from the sequence of events

Death at an Early Age and the Urban Scene Melvin Delgado,2003-06-30 While crime is down around the country many inner city youth continue to die as a result of violence drugs AIDS and other causes In response to the deaths of its young members many urban communities paint memorial murals to pay homage to the deceased and express the grief of an entire community Here Delgado explores the use of memorial murals for counseling the bereaved friends and family members of urban youth whose lives were cut short He proposes that employing such approaches can help a community address the problems inherent in their societies while remembering and celebrating the lives of their most vulnerable members Delgado begins by reviewing the key concepts and practice principles that are essential in any form of urban community social work practice He details the incidence and nature of the phenomena of death at an early age and describes the cultural aspects of grief and bereavement in general and as they pertain to the urban communities he observes Throughout his discussion of the use of memorial murals in social work practice he provides case studies about real communities and the ways in which they have used the murals to work through the grieving process The book concludes with a framework and theoretical model for social workers who work with urban populations This unique work addresses a common urban issue in the context of healing and outreach in a way that will especially appeal to social workers community leaders and organizations psychologists urban sociologists and students and scholars interested in the ways people deal with death and dying

Making Peace with the Past? Graham Dawson,2007 This book explores the psychic cultural and political ramifications of memory within the Irish troubles It investigates the traumatic impact of the violence perpetrated since 1969 the antagonistic cultural narratives of memory fashioned and mobilized in this context within public and private arenas and the conflicts paradoxes and contradictions involved in coming to terms with the past both before and during the Irish peace process initiated in 1993 94 It traces the formation from below of competing public narratives one concerned with the ethnic cleansing of Protestants by the Irish Republican Army the other with British state violence on Bloody Sunday and analyses their subjective roots in specific experiences of fear and loss their role in ideological struggle and their complicated relation to private familial and individual remembering
