Suffer A Sea Change:

Rich and Strange Marianne DeKoven, 1991-10-27 Like the products of the sea change described in Ariel's song in The Tempest modernist writing is rich and strange. Its greatness lies in its density and its dislocations which have until now been viewed as a repudiation of and an alternative to the cultural implications of turn of the century political radicalism. Marianne DeKoven argues powerfully to the contrary maintaining that modernist form evolved precisely as a means of representing the terrifying appeal of movements such as socialism and feminism. Organized around pairs and groups of female and male signed texts the book reveals the gender inflected ambivalence of modernist writers. Male modernists desiring utter change nevertheless feared the loss of hegemony it might entail while female modernists feared punishment for desiring such change. With water imagery as a focus throughout DeKoven provides extensive new readings of canonical modernist texts and of works in the feminist and African American canons not previously considered modernist. Building on insights of Luce Irigaray, Klaus Theweleit and Jacques Derrida she finds in modernism a paradigm of unresolved contradiction that enacts in the realm of form an alternative to patriarchal gender relations.

Familiar Quotations John Bartlett, 1919      Asphodel Hilda Doolittle, 1992 DESTROY H D had pencilled across the title page of this autobiographical novel. Although the manuscript survived it has remained unpublished since its completion in the 1920s. Regarded by many as one of the major poets of the modernist period H D created in Asphodel a remarkable and readable experimental prose text which in its manipulation of technique and voice can stand with the works of Joyce, Woolf and Stein in its frank exploration of lesbian desire, pregnancy and motherhood, artistic independence for women and female experience during wartime. H D's novel stands alone. A sequel to the author's Hermione, Asphodel takes the reader into the bohemian drawing rooms of pre-World War I London and Paris, a milieu populated by such thinly disguised versions of Ezra Pound, Richard Aldington, May Sinclair, Brigit Patmore and Margaret Craven, on the other side of what H D calls the chasm. The novel documents the war's devastating effect on the men and women who considered themselves guardians of beauty. Against this riven backdrop Asphodel plays out the story of Hermione Gart, a young American newly arrived in Europe and testing for the first time the limits of her sexual and artistic identities. Following Hermione through the frustrations of a literary world dominated by men, the failures of an attempted lesbian relationship and a marriage riddled with infidelity, the birth of an illegitimate child and finally happiness with a female companion, Asphodel describes with moving lyricism and striking candor the emergence of a young and gifted woman from her self-exile. Editor Robert Spoo's introduction carefully places Asphodel in the context of H D's life and work. In an appendix featuring capsule biographies of the real figures behind the novel's fictional characters Spoo provides keys to this roman clef     It Can be Done St. Clair Adams,1921 Selected publications from the Current bibliographies in medicine series in html and or pdf format Publications are in order by year and within year by report number Most are prepared in support of a specific National Institutes of Health Consensus Development Conference for each of which a Consensus Development Statement is also available     American Cookery ,1925     The Academy ,1909     The Academy and Literature ,1909     Punch Mark Lemon, Henry Mayhew, Tom Taylor, Shirley Brooks, Francis Cowley Burnand, Owen Seaman, 1923     Familiar Quotations ,1909     Familiar Quotations ,1891     Familiar Quotations: a Collection of Passages, Phrases, and Proverbs Traced to Their Sources in Ancient and Modern Literature ,1895     The Tempest William Shakespeare, 1895     A New English Dictionary on Historical Principles ,1919     A New English Dictionary on Historical Principles James Augustus Henry Murray, 1919
