The Nervous Nineties:

The Nervous Nineties Kersi Meher-Homji, 1995-12 Collection of cricket statistics and anecdotes dealing with players who just failed to reach a century playing Test first class and junior level cricket Presents information such as the number of nineties scored by each player in 1260 Test matches the greatest number of nineties scored by a cricketer in test and one day international games and some bizarre ways in which a batsman has been prevented from scoring 100 runs The author's other publications include the acclaimed Out for a Duck The Nervous Nineties, 1990 The Art of Centuries Steve James, 2015-04-09 A century has always had a special resonance in all walks of life and none more so than in cricket Scoring one hundred runs is the ultimate for a batsman As former England captain Andrew Strauss admits it's incredibly hard to do for Ricky Ponting it's a transformational moment in the career of a cricketer Or in the words of Geoffrey Boycott a century has its own magic In The Art of Centuries Steve James applies his award winning forensic insight to the very heart of batting Through interviews with the leading run scorers in cricket history and his own experiences Steve discovers what mental and physical efforts are required to reach those magical three figures Despite his own haul of 47 first class tons he himself felt at times that he was poorly equipped for the task So working out how to score centuries is an art And bowlers might not agree but there really is no better feeling in cricket
