The World Of Sound:

A world of sound Francesco Aletta, Naomi Curati, Gianluca Memoli, Christian J. Sumner, 2023-09-15 Everything vibrates and makes sound from the smallest living cells in the human body to the biggest skyscrapers Sound itself is a travelling wave of vibrating particles but amazingly our brains can understand sounds gathering information and meaning from these vibrations Sounds are the building blocks for language and culture and can be a source of both pleasure and pain In the modern world sound is also fantastic tool for medicine industry and monitoring the natural environment But it can also be polluting and bad for our health For many animals sound is essential for survival enabling them to communicate hunt and navigate their world Hearing loss affects around 5% of the world's population and encouraged by the WHO scientists across the world are working to find new ways to improve deaf people's lives The science of sound cuts across many disciplines from medicine and neuroscience to the environment and people who study sound use complex mathematics and cutting edge technology to help us understand how sound affects us and our planet 2020-21 was the first International Year of Sound initiated by the International Commission for Acoustics in response to UNESCO resolution 39C 49 as a celebration of sound and how it enters our lives in so many ways To celebrate the year of sound here you will find a collection of articles written by experts from the UK Acoustics Network and the International Year of Sound team These articles explore the fascinating world of sound and how it benefits and causes problems to people other animals and our environment Editorial consultant Caryl Hart Children's Author

The Sound That Perceives the World Kosho Uchiyama, 2025-11-25 Musings and autobiographically informed commentary on the human condition through the lens of the Kannon gyo chapter 25 of the Lotus Sutra connecting Zen and Pure Land Buddhism through the practice of venerating and chanting the names of buddhas and bodhisattvas The Kannon gyo is chapter 25 of the Lotus Sutra and its focus is the bodhisattva of compassion Avalokiteshvara known in China as Guanyin and in Japan as Kannon or Kanzeon The text describes the many ways in which calling out the bodhisattva's name Namu Kanzeon Bosatsu can relieve suffering Most schools of Zen Buddhism and especially the Soto school eschew such practices as chanting the names of buddhas and bodhisattvas along with venerating such figures The eminent Soto Zen master Kosho Uchiyama Roshi however while doing hard physical labor early in his career could not practice zazen that is formal sitting meditation He came to appreciate the Kannon gyo and the practices related to it In particular he took to reciting Kannon's name as recommended in the text of the Kannon gyo Later in life Uchiyama Roshi suffered from illness that again prevented him from practicing formal Zen so he returned to the Kannon gyo and the practice of chanting He went so far as to assert that chanting Kannon's name is completely equivalent to zazen that the two practices are simply two sides of the same coin a revolutionary idea seemingly at odds with Zen Chanting practice is especially accessible as it can be done while working traveling or suffering from illness and other activities that would ordinarily get in the way of formal Zen practice With these practices the Kannon gyo and Kannon herself as a backdrop Uchiyama Roshi
