The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County is an 1865 short story by Mark Twain. It was his first great success as a writer and brought him national attention. The story has also been published as Jim Smiley and His Jumping Frog (its original title) and The Notorious Jumping Frog of Calaveras County. In it, the narrator retells a story he heard from a bartender, Simon Wheeler, at the Angels Hotel in Angels Camp, California, about the gambler Jim Smiley. The narrator describes him: "If he even seen a straddle bug start to go anywheres he would bet you how long it would take him to get to wherever he going to and if you took him up he would foller that straddle bug to Mexico but what he would find out where he was bound for and how long he was on the road."

The Jumping Frog Mark Twain, 2000. Has not been in print for many years and in this regard is a new and rare collection. The Jumping Frog was the story that launched Twain's career. He was loitering around the Angels Camp mining town in California and was told the story in a worn-out saloon by a bald-headed local who relayed it in a deadpan tone with no hint of excitement or humor. When Twain sent it to a humorist friend in New York, it was published in the prestigious Saturday Press, then reprinted by newspapers throughout Europe and America. This rare volume has 18 other stories and should serve as an exciting addition to those who appreciate Twain's wit and wisdom.
